Human Geopolitics Alan Gamlen, 2019-05-02 Human geopolitics the competition for population rather than territory is an essential but weakly understood dimension of world politics today Such competition has preceded violent conflict throughout history but has been muted since the Treaties of Westphalia laid the territorial foundations of the modern international system in the mid seventeenth century Today however human geopolitics is being resurrected in unanticipated ways as governments are enabled and encouraged to engage their emigrant diasporas How and why is this happening Until now these questions have been difficult to answer The majority of research attention has focused on questions of immigration policy in a handful of wealthy migrant destination countries largely ignoring the emigration policies that preoccupy the worlds many migrant origin states This book addresses that research imbalance by focusing on the overlooked sending side of migration policy Drawing on data covering all UN members across the post WWII period and fieldwork with high level policy makers across 60 states and a dozen international organisations the book charts the re emergence of human geopolitics through the global spread of diaspora institutions government ministries and offices dedicated to emigrants and their descendants It calls for the development of stronger guiding principles and evaluation frameworks to govern these new state diaspora relations in an era of unprecedented global interdependence

Rosnow, Donald B. Rubin, 2000 Contrasts are statistical procedures for asking focused questions of data Compared to diffuse or omnibus questions focused questions are characterized by greater conceptual clarity and greater statistical power when examining those focused questions If an effect truly exists we are more likely to discover it and to believe it to be real when asking focused questions rather than omnibus ones Researchers teachers of research methods and graduate students will be familiar with the principles and procedures of contrast analysis but will also be introduced to a series of newly developed concepts measures and indices that permit a wider and more useful application of contrast analysis This volume takes on this new approach by introducing a family of correlational effect size estimates
