Using jargon-free explanations and case examples, they present the information needed to inform good practice.

Differentiating Instruction for Students With Learning Disabilities William N. Bender, 2008. Written for teachers who want to know how to differentiate instruction for students with learning difficulties, the second edition of Differentiating Instruction for Students with Learning Disabilities draws upon the bestselling success of the first edition in explicitly showing what differentiated instruction is and how to use differentiated strategies in the classroom. With more concentration on brain research, multiple intelligence, response to intervention, RTI, tiered instruction, and universal design for learning, UDL, William N. Bender provides the most comprehensive book on differentiated instruction and learning disabilities based on scientific research and with a practical, teacher-friendly approach. An updated reference section, brief Teaching Tips, side bars, and thought-provoking new feature Reflections augment this powerful resource that educators can immediately use in the classroom with all students who have learning disabilities, who are at risk, and who may have learning difficulties.

Learning Disabilities Janet W. Lerner, 2000. This text's success is rooted in its eclectic approach, commitment to providing current information, and value as a professional resource. Learning Disabilities provides a comprehensive view of different approaches, assessment procedures, and materials for general and special education teachers, administrators, school psychologists, language pathologists, counselors, and related professionals. This edition explains the new laws for special education and the DOE's 1999 Rules and Regulations for implementing the 1997 Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. IDEA Methods for assessing and teaching linguistically and culturally diverse students with learning disabilities are explored.

Learning Disabilities William N. Bender, 1993.

Learning and Learning Difficulties Peter Westwood, 2004. The book explores a number of different perspectives and theories on human learning and motivation. The author examines different types of learning across the curriculum and assesses the most effective types of teaching to facilitate different forms of learning. By examining the way readers process text and identifying the knowledge and skills needed to become a proficient reader, the author explains why learning problems can sometimes occur and what can be done to prevent or overcome these difficulties
