Scott Rutherford, 1994 This synthesis will be of interest to transportation planners environmental analysts and government officials at the federal state regional and local levels It describes the state of the practice with respect to the procedures and methodologies used by planning agencies at all levels to plan and evaluate alternative multimodal passenger transportation and to integrate these plans with related land use and environmental issues This report of the Transportation Research Board describes the federal studies and guidelines that are available and presents the findings of an extensive survey of state regional and local agencies to identify the evaluation methods that are being used in the practice Selected case studies for five types of modal evaluation are presented intercity corridor regional study regional screening urban corridor and regional programming

Why Decisions Fail (EasyRead Edition) Paul C. Nutt, 2002

The High Cost of Free Parking Donald Shoup, 2017-10-20 One of the American Planning Association's most popular and influential books is finally in paperback with a new preface from the author on how thinking about parking has changed since this book was first published In this no holds barred treatise Donald Shoup argues that free parking has contributed to auto dependence rapid urban sprawl extravagant energy use and a host of other problems Planners mandate free parking to alleviate congestion but end up distorting transportation choices debasing urban design damaging the economy and degrading the environment Ubiquitous free parking helps explain why our cities sprawl on a scale fit more for cars than for people and why American motor vehicles now consume one eighth of the world's total oil production But it doesn't have to be this way Shoup proposes new ways for cities to regulate parking namely charge fair market prices for curb parking use the resulting revenue to pay for services in the neighborhoods that generate it and remove zoning requirements for off street parking Such measures according to the Yale trained economist and UCLA planning professor will make parking easier and driving less necessary Join the swelling ranks of Shoupistas by picking up this book today You'll never look at a parking spot the same way again

Location Theory and Decision Analysis Yupo Chan, 2011-08-26 Employing state of the art quantitative models and case studies Location Theory and Decision Analysis provides the methodologies behind the siting of such facilities as transportation terminals warehouses housing landfills state parks and industrial plants Through its extensive methodological review the book serves as a primer for more advanced texts on spatial analysis including the monograph on Location Transport and Land Use by the same author Given the rapid changes over the last decade the Second Edition includes new analytic contributions as well as software survey of analytics and spatial information technology While the First Edition served the professional community well the Second Edition has substantially expanded its emphasis for classroom use of the volume Extensive pedagogic materials have been added going from the fundamental principles to open ended exercises including solutions to selected problems The text is of value to engineering and business programs that offer courses in Decision and Risk Analysis Muticriteria Decision Making and Facility Location and Layout It should also be of interest to public policy programs that use geographic Information Systems and satellite imagery to support their analyses

Cost-benefit Analysis and Evolutionary Computing John H. E. Taplin, Min Qui, Vivian K. Salim, Renlong Han, 2005-01-01 Demonstrating the application of evolutionary computing techniques to an exceptionally complex problem in the real business world Cost Benefit Analysis and Evolutionary Computing will be of great value to academics and those practitioners and researchers interested in addressing the classic issue of evaluating road expansion and maintenance programs

BOOK JACKET From Mobility to Accessibility Jonathan Levine, Joe Grengs, Louis A. Merlin, 2019-11-15 Levine Grengs and Merlin marshal a compelling case to shift to accessibility oriented planning providing much needed conceptual clarity as to what accessibility is and is not But their book also represents a major step toward transforming accessibility from a vaguely defined aspiration into concrete measures that can guide planning decisions Journal of the American Planning Association In From Mobility to Accessibility an expert team of researchers flips the tables on the standard models for evaluating regional transportation performance Jonathan Levine Joe Grengs and Louis A Merlin argue for an accessibility shift whereby transportation planning and the transportation dimensions of land use planning would be based on people s ability to reach destinations rather than on their ability to travel fast Existing models for planning and evaluating transportation which have taken vehicle speeds as the most important measure would make sense if movement were the purpose of transportation But it is the ability to reach destinations not movement per se that people seek from their transportation systems While the concept of accessibility has been around for the better part of a century From Mobility to Accessibility shows that the accessibility shift is compelled by the fundamental purpose of transportation The book argues that the shift would be transformative to the practice of both transportation and land use planning but is impeded by many conceptual obstacles regarding the nature of accessibility and its potential for guiding development of the built environment By redefining success in transportation the book provides city planners decisionmakers and scholars a path to reforming the practice of transportation and land use planning in modern cities and metropolitan areas

Advancing Equity Planning Now Norman Krumholz, Kathryn Wertheim Hexter, 2019-01-15 What can planners do to restore equity to their craft Drawing upon the perspectives of a diverse group of planning experts Advancing Equity Planning Now places the concepts of fairness and equal access squarely in the center of planning research and practice Editors Norman Krumholz and Kathryn Wertheim Hexter provide essential resources for city leaders and planners as well as for students and others interested in shaping the built environment for a more just world Advancing Equity Planning Now remind us that equity has always been an integral consideration in the planning profession The historic roots of that ethical commitment go back more than a century Yet a trend of growing inequality in America as well as other recent socio economic changes that divide the wealthiest from the middle and working classes challenge the notion that a rising economic tide lifts all boats When planning becomes mere place making for elites urban and regional planners need to return to the fundamentals of their profession Although they have not always done so planners are well positioned to advocate for greater equity in public policies that address the multiple objectives of urban planning including housing transportation economic development and the removal of noxious land uses in neighborhoods Thanks to generous funding from Cleveland State University the ebook editions of this book are available as Open Access volumes from Cornell Open cornellpress.cornell.edu/cornell-open and other repositories

High Cost of Free Parking Donald Shoup, 2021-02-25 Off street parking requirements are devastating American cities So says the author in this no holds barred treatise on the way parking should be Free parking the author argues has contributed to auto dependence rapid urban sprawl extravagant energy use and a host of other problems Planners mandate free parking to alleviate congestion but end up distorting transportation choices debasing urban design damaging the economy and degrading the environment Ubiquitous free parking helps explain why our cities sprawl on a scale fit more for cars than for people and why American motor vehicles now consume one eighth of the world's total oil production But it doesn't have to be this way The author proposes new ways for cities to regulate parking namely charge fair market prices for curb parking use the resulting revenue to pay for services in the neighborhoods that generate it and remove zoning requirements for off street parking

The Public Administration (P. A.) Genome Project John W. Dickey, 2009-10-01 What is it The Public Administration Genome Project PAGP is a grand attempt to digitally map and then usefully employ the full set of topics variables and interrelationships that comprise and involve all of the genes that make up public administration It is based on the highly regarded and useful Human Genome Project Why do it Like the world in general the P A world is becoming more diverse and complicated Hence few administrators can be expected to know much less remember the many relevant strategies external forces and related impacts that might be part of a particular situation There thus is a need for a comprehensive logic based readily accessible system called COMPASS to help in finding and elaborating on such topics variables and interrelationships What is in the book It starts with a broad overview of the whole PAGP It then turns to an elaboration of both the basic and then the more comprehensive analogies with the human genome the Human Genome Project and other related concepts like catalysis and evolution These are followed by a set of new and seemingly unconnected subjects a norms for citizens and public administrators and b semantic and syntactic analyses Then come some interesting and diverse case studies and comparisons of such to theories All these set the scene for development of procedures for contributing to and using COMPASS the information and guidance system which is the central product of the PAGP The whole concept of the PAGP subsequently is revisited through an example that encompasses all of its major elements and processes The last part of the book focuses on future directions asking questions like Is the PAGP and COMPASS an impossible dream or a much needed reality
