Speaking from the Body

Angie Chabram, Adela de la Torre, 2008-11-20 In compelling first person accounts Latinas speak freely about dealing with serious health episodes as patients family caregivers or friends They show how the complex interweaving of gender class and race impacts the health status of Latinas and how family spirituality and culture affect the experience of illness Here are stories of Latinas living with conditions common to many hypertension breast cancer obesity diabetes depression osteoarthritis rheumatoid arthritis dementia Parkinson s lupus and hyper hypothyroidism By bringing these narratives out from the shadows of private lives they demonstrate how such ailments form part of the larger whole of Latina lives that encompasses family community the medical profession and society They show how personal identity and community intersect to affect the interpretation of illness compliance with treatment and the utilization of allopathic medicine alternative therapies and traditional healing practices The book also includes a retrospective analysis of the narratives and a discussion of Latina health issues and policy recommendations These Latina cultural narratives illustrate important aspects of the social contexts and real world family relationships crucial to understanding illness Speaking from the Body is a trailblazing collection of personal testimonies that integrates professional and personal perspectives and shows that our understanding of health remains incomplete if Latina cultural narratives are not included
