

The background is a rich, detailed painting. In the center, a blue vase holds a branch of pink cherry blossoms. To the left, three ornate, multi-tiered pagodas stand on a dark base. Above the pagodas, a cluster of red berries hangs from a branch. Below the vase, a bronze-colored object, possibly a sculpture of a reclining figure, is visible. The entire scene is set against a backdrop of lush green foliage and various flowers, including pink peonies and yellow sunflowers. The overall style is reminiscent of traditional East Asian art, possibly Japanese or Chinese, with a focus on natural elements and architectural structures.

fifteenth century to present day misconceptions about the region's role in pre-Columbian history. Many of the contributions included here consider the Huasteca's interactions with other regions, particularly the American Southeast and the southern Gulf Coast of Mexico. Pre-Columbian Huastec inhabitants, for example, wore trapezoid-shaped shell ornaments unique in Mesoamerica but similar to those found along the Mississippi River. With extensive examples drawn from archaeological evidence and supported by nearly 200 images, the contributors explore the Huasteca as a junction where art, material culture, customs, ritual practices, and languages were exchanged. While most of the essays focus on pre-Columbian periods, a few address the early colonial period and contemporary agricultural and religious practices. Together, these essays illuminate the Huasteca's significant legacy and the cross-cultural connections that still resonate in the region today.

Whole System Design Peter Stansinopoulos, Michael Smith, Karlson Hargroves, Cheryl Desha, 2013-01-11 Whole System Design is increasingly being seen as one of the most cost-effective ways to both increase the productivity and reduce the negative environmental impacts of an engineered system. A focus on design is critical as the output from this stage of the project locks in most of the economic and environmental performance of the designed system throughout its life, which can span from a few years to many decades. Indeed, it is now widely acknowledged that all designers, particularly engineers, architects, and industrial designers, need to be able to understand and implement a whole system design approach. This book provides a clear design methodology based on leading efforts in the field and is supported by worked examples that demonstrate how advances in energy, materials, and water productivity can be achieved through applying an integrated approach to sustainable engineering. Chapters 1-5 outline the approach and explain how it can be implemented to enhance the established Systems Engineering framework. Chapters 6-10 demonstrate through detailed worked examples the application of the approach to industrial pumping systems, passenger vehicles, electronics, and computer systems, temperature control of buildings, and domestic water systems. Published with The Natural Edge Project, the World Federation of Engineering Organizations, UNESCO, and the Australian Government.

Wanting and Intending Neil Roughley, 2016-03-01 This book aims to answer two simple questions: what is it to want and what is it to intend? Because of the breadth of contexts in which the relevant phenomena are implicated and the wealth of views that have attempted to account for them, providing the answers is not quite so simple. Doing so requires an examination not only of the relevant philosophical theories and our everyday practices but also of the rich empirical material that has been provided by work in social and developmental psychology. The investigation is carried out in two parts dedicated to wanting and intending respectively. Wanting is analysed as optative attitudinising, a basic form of subjective standard setting at the core of compound states such as longings, desires, projects, and whims. The analysis is developed in the context of a discussion of Moore paradoxicality and deepened through the examination of rival theories which include functionalist and hedonistic conceptions as well as the guise of the good view and the pure entailment approach two views popular in moral psychology In the second part of the study a disjunctive genetic theory of intending is developed according to which intentions are optative attitudes on which in one way or another the mark of deliberation has been conferred It is this which explains intention's subjection to the requirements of practical rationality Moreover unlike wanting intending turns out to be dependent on normative features of our life form in particular on practices of holding responsible The book will be of particular interest to philosophers and psychologists working on motivation goals desire intention deliberation decision and practical rationality

The Relación de Michoacán (1539-1541) and the Politics of Representation in Colonial Mexico Angélica Jimena Afanador-Pujol, 2015-07-01 The Relación de Michoacán 1539-1541 is one of the earliest surviving illustrated manuscripts from colonial Mexico Commissioned by the Spanish viceroy Antonio de Mendoza the Relación was produced by a Franciscan friar together with indigenous noble informants and anonymous native artists who created its forty-four illustrations To this day the Relación remains the primary source for studying the pre-Columbian practices and history of the people known as Tarascans or Purhépecha However much remains to be said about how the Relación's colonial setting shaped its final form By looking at the Relación in its colonial context this study reveals how it presented the indigenous collaborators a unique opportunity to shape European perceptions of them while settling conflicting agendas outshining competing ethnic groups and carving a place for themselves in the new colonial society Through archival research and careful visual analysis Angélica Afanador Pujol provides a new and fascinating account that situates the manuscript's images within the colonial conflicts that engulfed the indigenous collaborators These conflicts ranged from disputes over political posts among indigenous factions to labor and land disputes against Spanish newcomers Afanador Pujol explores how these tensions are physically expressed in the manuscript's production and in its many contradictions between text and images as well as in numerous emendations to the images By studying representations of justice landscape conquest narratives and genealogy within the Relación Afanador Pujol clearly demonstrates the visual construction of identity its malleability and its political possibilities

Adventuring in the Englishes Ikram Ahmed Ibrahim Elsherif, Piers Michael Smith, 2014-10-16 This book is a compilation of articles dealing with linguistic and literary concerns relating to the global production and consumption of literature in English and global instruction and education in the English language The umbrella theme of the book is English Language and Literature in a Globalized World or The Global Appropriation and hybridization of English The contributing authors are international scholars and creative writers from different parts of the world who offer unique perspectives on the ways in which the English language and English literature are constantly developing and changing in a postcolonial global world They are mostly professors of English who have cross-cultural teaching experiences and who live or have lived and worked in both Anglophone and non-Anglophone countries To many of them English is their dominant language but not the mother tongue All of them are bilingual or even trilingual Thus their scholarly investigations are flavoured with their personal experiences or adventures with the language and its users Their unique visions reveal a process of adoption adaptation reinvention and appropriation of both the language and its literature in a multi national multi cultural and multi lingual community of a world where English has become the most recognizable sign of globalization This book will appeal to all scholars and practitioners of English language and literature particularly those interested in colonial and postcolonial studies modern and post modern studies ethnic and minority studies feminist studies cross cultural studies linguistics semantics ESP and curriculum development Works of Art Library of Congress. Copyright Office,1973 English Episcopal Acta 31, Ely 1109-1197 Nicholas Karn,David Michael Smith,British Academy,2005-12-15 The 170 acta published in this volume provide one of the best records of the structuring of a new diocese and the establishment of a cathedral chapter The diocese of Ely comprising historic Cambridgeshire was founded in 1109 and its first four bishops oversaw the elaboration of a system of local ecclesiastical government and also the formulation of a settlement between themselves and the Benedictine monks of Ely whose church became the cathedral Two of the bishops also held high secular office William de Longchamp was effective regent of England while King Richard I was on Crusade and the acta issued in connection with these duties shed light on the delegation of royal power
