Playing the Waves Jan Simons, 2007 Dogma 95 the avant garde filmmaking movement founded by the Danish director Lars von Trier and three of his fellow directors was launched in 1995 at an elite cinema conference in Paris when von Trier was called upon to speak about the future of film but instead showered the audience with pamphlets announcing the new movement and its manifesto A refreshingly original critical commentary on the director and his practice Playing the Waves is a paramount addition to one of new media's most provocative genres games and gaming Playing the Waves cleverly puns on the title of one of von Trier's most famous features and argues that Dogma 95 like much of the director's low budget realist productions is a game that takes cinema beyond the traditional confines of film aesthetics and dramatic rules Simons articulates the ways in which von Trier redefines the practice of filmmaking as a rule bound activity and stipulates the forms and structures of games von Trier brings to bear on his films as well as the sobering lessons he draws from economic and evolutionary game theory Much like the director's films

Creole Cinema: Memory Traces Louise Hardwick, 2025-02-10 Creole Cinema Memory Traces is the first book written in English on Francophone Caribbean cinema It establishes a postcolonial Caribbean and fundamentally Creole theoretical framework for the interpretation of works which the author defines as Creole cinema through the lens of Patrick Chamoiseau s concept of the Trace mmoire In so doing it examines the remarkable multisensory forms of memory expression performed by Creole cinema drawing on work on intercultural cinema and haptic visuality by Laura Marks and on Hamid Naficy's insights into accented cinema Initially undertaking a general survey which provides the most comprehensive account of Francophone Caribbean cinema to date the critical framework is then developed in a series of case studies which analyse Biguine 2004 directed by Guy Deslauriers with a screenplay by Chamoiseau Nord Plage 2004 directed by Jos Hayot again with Chamoiseau as author of the screenplay Rue Cases N'gres 1983 Sugar Cane Alley directed by Euzhan Palcy and N'g maron 2005 directed by Jean Claude Barney Each case study establishes how the Trace m moire manifests in a complex haptic multisensory set of dynamics which can be discerned both in individual works and across a wider range of films considered in order to access and retrieve here with a particular emphasis on processes of creative intuition subaltern and marginalised memories and histories The study works in a consistently interdisciplinary manner across areas including Francophone Studies Film Studies Postcolonial Studies World Cinema and Black Studies and represents a timely intervention on urgent debates around black representation in cinema

Threatened Masculinity from British Fiction to Cold War German Cinema Joseph Willis, 2019-05-30 The impact of the Cold War on German male identities can be seen in the nation's cinematic search for a masculine paradigm that rejected the fate centered value system of its National Socialist past while also recognizing that German males once again had become victims of fate and fatalism but now within the value system of the Soviet and American hegemonies that determined the fate of Cold War Germany and Central Europe This monograph is the first to demonstrate that this Cold War cinematic search sought out a meaningful masculine paradigm through film adaptations of late Victorian and Edwardian male writers who likewise sought a means of self determination within a hegemonic structure that often left few opportunities for personal agency In contrast to the scholarly practice of exploring categories of modern masculinity such as Victorian imperialist manliness or German Cold War male identity as distinct from each other this monograph offers an important comparative corrective that brings forward an extremely influential century long trajectory of threatened masculinity For German Cold War masculinity lessons were to be learned from history namely from late Victorian and Edwardian models of manliness Cold War Germans like the Victorians before them had to confront the unknowns of a new world without fear or hesitation In a Cold War mentality where nuclear technology and geographic distance had trumped face to face confrontation between East and West Cold War German masculinity sought alternatives to the insanity of mutual nuclear destruction by choosing not just to confront threats but to resolve threats directly through personal agency and self determination understanding of both reality and the nature of human experience Focused on the question of the relationship between how things seem to us and how they really are it is at once an introduction to philosophy through film and an introduction to film through philosophy The book is divided into three parts The first is an introduction to philosophy and film designed for the reader with little background in one or the other subject The second examines the philosophical importance of the distinction between appearance and reality and shows that reflection upon this distinction is naturally provoked by the experience of watching movies The final part takes a close and careful look at the style and techniques of Jean Luc Godard s groundbreaking film Breathless in order to illustrate how such themes can be explored cinematically The book addresses topics such as Film what it is and how to understand it The methods and concerns of philosophy The nature of cinematic appearances The history of metaphysics The relationship between cinema and life The philosophical relevance of film techniques With a glossary of key thinkers terms and concepts as well as sections on suggested films and further reading this textbook will appeal to lecturers and students in undergraduate philosophy and film courses and in courses focused on Philosophy of Film Philosophy and Film or Film Philosophy
