Competitiveness Strategy in Developing Countries Ganeshan Wignaraja, 2003-10-04 Globalization and structural adjustment offer many opportunities for export orientated industrialization in developing economies As a group competitiveness in the developing countries has improved but while East Asian economies have had rapid export growth and technological upgrades South Asian and African economies have lagged behind Old structures institutions behavioural patterns and public policies are ill adapted to deal with the challenges posed by technological change and economic liberalization Consequently there is an urgent need for change in government and private sector attitudes and strategies This volume seeks to generalise the lessons across developing country and enterprise cases and sheds light on which trade and industrial strategies and instruments work best and which do not work in relation to manufacturing competitiveness

Rural Industrialisation T. M. Dak, 1989 Viewed mainly as the growth of manufacturing sector as opposed to agriculture and the increased use of inanimate sources of power in the production of goods and services rural industrialization offers the greatest scope for absorbing the existing and growing labour force outside the field of agriculture However rural industrial scene continues to be characterised by the concentration of labour force in agriculture predominance of traditional crafts low levels of technology hereditary mode of production poor productivity and returns and low labour efficiency and utilisation Besides glorification of traditional crafts and self employment caste industry nexus and above all policy bias in favour of agriculture as against industry and large and medium capital intensive industries as against small village and cottage industries also worked as strong impediments to the development of rural crafts Drawing from the nationwide experiences this book examines the problems of the growth and modernisation of rural industries from socio economic perspectives and probes into the organisational and technology system underlying their production structure with all its implications and ramifications. The reversal of the policy favouring large modern industry sector and the spread of tiny small industries throughout the country with full package of organisational, technical, financial and marketing support in adequate measure have been strongly advocated. In addition, the integration of the development of rural industries with the overall programme of industrialisation was emphasized. Financial Markets, Institutions and Services - SBPD Publications Dr. F. Entrepreneurial Role of Development Banks in Backward Areas Kalpana Vaish, 1993 Developmental Integration and Industrialisation in Southern Africa Siphumelele Duma, 2023-05-18

Since the beginning of decolonisation in Africa, regional integration has become one of the most potent defining characteristics of the continent's quest for industrialisation and sustainable development. It was understood that the individual continental economies could not achieve the requisite level of industrial development to meet their respective development objectives due to the colonial policy of balkanisation which divided the continent into small economically unviable units. In 1992, the Southern African Development Community (SADC) adopted developmental integration as an approach to regional integration to engender industrialisation and address the region's development challenges. This book offers a critical assessment and examination of this approach as to how it has influenced the industrialisation process in Southern Africa. If so, why has it failed to accelerate the region's industrialisation and structural transformation process? It contributes significantly to cross-cutting development debates on the African continent, particularly in southern Africa. More importantly, it understands the nexus between developmental integration and industrialisation.

Patterns of European Industrialisation Richard Sylla, Gianni Toniolo, 1992-10

The new opportunities for economic development in Eastern Europe and the approach of 1992 have heightened interest in the development of the European economy. This volume, which includes contributions from some of the world's leading economic historians, presents and discusses the latest research findings on the industrialization and modernization of the European economy during the nineteenth century.
