

HSC ECONOMICS NOTES TOPIC 1

The Global Economy

- The global economy provides the framework in which all national economies operate.
 - All of the economies in the world, producing goods and services, contributing to Gross World Product (GWP). Hence, a change in one economy has ripple effects on others.
 - GWP is the total value of all G&S produced in the global economy each year (3.7% growth rate in 2018).

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC INTEGRATION:

The Global Economy

- The growth of the global economy is broadly due to:
 1. Deregulation of consumer and financial markets
 2. Increased mergers and acquisitions of TNCs (transnational corporations)
 3. Increased communication due to the internet and satellite communication
 4. Bilateral (2 countries) and multilateral (2+ countries) agreements between economies
 5. Movement towards privatisation
- Economic integration refers to the liberalisation of trade between two or more countries, or many countries within a region, leading to the possible formation of:
 1. A Free Trade Area - where a group of countries come together and abolish trade restrictions between themselves but retain restrictions against non-member countries, e.g. NAFTA (North-American Free Trade Agreement - US, Canada, Mexico)
 2. A Customs Union - where member countries not only abolish trade restrictions between themselves, but also adopt a common set of trade restrictions against non-member countries, e.g. European Economic Community
 3. A Common Market - features of a customs union, additionally allowing the free mobility of labour and capital within common market countries, as well as the free flow of G&S
 4. A Monetary Union - features of a common market plus the adoption of a common currency and the coordination of monetary policy through a single central bank, e.g. European Union.
- Advanced Economies are market-based economies (limited government intervention), who dominate GWP (41.9%), have high levels of economic development (avg. per capita incomes >US $30,000 p.a.) & slower economic growth with service-based industries (e.g. USA, Australia)
- Emerging and developing economies are in the process of raising their rates of economic growth and development, but have lower per capita incomes and living standards than adv. economies. These include economies in transition (former communist countries)
 - Emerging economies are those undergoing rapid industrialization, rapid growth and development (e.g. BRIC)
 - Developing economies are heavily reliant on agriculture and (in extreme cases) foreign aid. They have low income levels with a large proportion of the population in absolute poverty (< $US 1.25 a day), e.g. Ethiopia, Zimbabwe.
- The size of the global economy is measured by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) through the compilation of data which values countries' Gross Domestic Products (GDPs) at purchasing power parities (PPP).

Human Capital Investment and the Regional Economic Gap in China Yaling Li, 2023-10-31 According to the neoclassical growth theory and the endogenous growth theory changes in the stock of capital and labor affect economic growth rates in the short run and differences in human capital stocks are likely to affect total factor productivity directly and long term economic growth rates indirectly Therefore human capital is a factor in the secular trends of regional economic gaps In this study the author examines the relationship between regional economic disparities and the country's human capital stocks and structure in China between 1990 and 2015 a period of economic transformation in the country Available empirical evidence supports the argument that boosting investment toward and optimizing the spatial distribution of human capital can help mitigate regional economic disparity and facilitate balanced and coordinated economic development across the country U.S. Government Research & Development Reports, 1970 Green Corridors and Regional Economic Integrations for Sustainable Development Qaiser Abbas, Farhad Taghizadeh-Hesary, Gazi Salah Uddin, Faris ALshubiri, Imran Hanif, 2023-08-14 Regional Economic Outlook, April 2017, Sub-Saharan Africa Céline Allard, 2017-05-09 Growth momentum in sub Saharan Africa remains fragile marking a break from the rapid expansion witnessed since the turn of the millennium 2016 was a difficult year for many countries with regional growth dipping to 1.4 percent the lowest level of growth in more than two decades Most oil exporters were in recession and conditions in other resource intensive countries remained difficult Other nonresource intensive countries however continued to grow robustly A modest recovery in growth of about 2.6 percent is expected in 2017 but this falls short of past trends and is too low to put sub Saharan Africa back on a path of rising living standards While sub Saharan Africa remains a region with tremendous growth potential the deterioration in the overall outlook partly reflects insufficient policy adjustment In that context and to reap this potential strong and sound domestic policy measures are needed to restart the growth engine Regional Economic Impacts of Terrorist Attacks, Natural Disasters and Metropolitan Policies Harry W. Richardson, Qisheng Pan, JiYoung Park, James E. Moore II, 2015-02-25 This book presents a multiregional input output model for the metropolitan area of Southern California which helps to estimate the economic impact of simulated terrorist attacks on seaports malls etc as well as of natural disasters such as earthquakes and tsunamis The authors also analyze the economic and social effects of metropolitan policies such as growth controls neighborhood gentrification or road congestion charges The model presented in the book has evolved over a period of 25 years and requires a very substantial computer capacity East Midlands Development Agency and the regional economic strategy Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: East Midlands Regional Select Committee, 2009-07-29 East Midlands Development Agency and the regional economic Strategy First report of Session 2008-09 Regional Economic Development Robert J. Stimson, Roger R. Stough, Brian H. Roberts, 2013-03-09 Regional economic development has attracted the interest of economists geographers planners and regional scientists for a long time And of course it is a field that has developed a large practitioner cohort in government and business agencies from the national down to the state and local levels In planning for cities and regions both large and small economic development issues now tend to be integrated into strategic planning processes For at least the last 50 years scholars from various disciplines have theorised about the nature of regional economic development developing a range of models seeking to explain the process of regional economic development and why it is that regions vary so much in their economic structure and performance and how these aspects of a region can change dramatically over time Regional scientists in particular have developed a comprehensive tool kit of methodologies to measure and monitor regional economic characteristics such as industry sectors employment income value of production investment and the like using both quantitative and qualitative methods of analysis and focusing on both static and dynamic analysis The father of regional science Walter Isard was the first to put together a comprehensive volume on techniques of regional analysis Isard 1960 and since then a huge literature has emerged including the many titles in the series published by Springer in which this book is published
