Regulating The Changing Media A Comparative Study:

Mass Media James B. Martin, 2002 Mass media has become an integral part of the human experience News travels around the world in a split second affecting people in other countries in untold ways Although being on top of the news may be good at least for news junkies mass media also transmits values or the lack thereof condenses complex events and thoughts to simplified sound bites and often ignores the essence of an event or story The selective bibliography gathers the books and magazine literature over the previous ten years while providing access through author title and subject indexes

The Handbook of Comparative Communication Research Frank Esser, Thomas Hanitzsch, 2013-06-19 The Handbook of Comparative Communication Research aims to provide a comprehensive understanding of comparative communication research It fills an obvious gap in the literature and offers an extensive and interdisciplinary discussion of the general approach of comparative research its prospect and problems as well as its applications in crucial sub fields of communications The first part of the volume charts the state of the art in the field the second section introduces relevant areas of communication studies where the comparative approach has been successfully applied in recent years the third part offers an analytical review of conceptual and methodological issues and the last section proposes a roadmap for future research

Regulating Audiovisual Services Thomas Gibbons, 2023-07-14 In recent years the changing nature of audiovisual services has had a significant impact on regulatory policy and practice The adoption of digital technology means that broadcasting cable satellite the Internet and mobile telephony are converging enabling each of them to deliver the same kinds of content and allowing users to exercise much greater choice over the kind of material that they receive and when they receive it The essays examine the implications for regulatory design asking whether there is still a role for traditional style state controls or whether other techniques such as competition in the market and self regulation are more appropriate They also explore how in the digital era structural issues of media ownership and control become problems of access and interconnection between services and how content regulation focuses more on problems raised by the interactions between providers and users the relationship between freedom of information and technologies to control it and the international reach of the new media

Routledge Handbook of Media Law Monroe Price, Stefaan Verhulst, Libby Morgan, 2013-01-04 Featuring specially commissioned chapters from experts in the field of media and communications law this book provides an authoritative survey of media law from a comparative perspective The handbook does not simply offer a synopsis of the state of affairs in media law jurisprudence rather it provides a better understanding of the forces that generate media rules norms and standards against the background of major transformations in the way information is mediated as a result of democratization economic development cultural change globalization and technological innovation The book addresses a range of issues including Media Law and Evolving Concepts of Democracy Network neutrality and traffic management Public Service Broadcasting in Europe Interception of Communication and Surveillance in Russia State secrets leaks and the media

A variety of rule making institutions are considered including administrative and judicial entities within and outside government but also entities such as associations and corporations that generate binding rules The book assesses the emerging role of supranational economic and political groupings as well as non Western models such as China and India where cultural attitudes toward media freedoms are often very different Monroe E Price is Director of the Center for Global Communication Studies at the Annenberg School for the University of Pennsylvania and Joseph and Sadie Danciger Professor of Law and Director of the Howard M Squadron Program in Law Media and Society at the Cardozo School of Law Stefaan Verhulst is Chief of Research at the Markle Foundation Previously he was the co founder and co director with Professor Monroe Price of the Programme in Comparative Media Law and Policy PCMLP at Oxford University as well as senior research fellow at the Centre for Socio Legal Studies Libby Morgan is the Associate Director of the Center for Global Communication Studies at the Annenberg School for the University of Pennsylvania

Media Pluralism and European Law Ewa Komorek, 2012-12-01 Although there appears to be no firm legal basis in the Treaties for EU legislative action aimed specifically at protecting media pluralism this book opens a number of promising avenues along which a viable legal regime protecting media pluralism may be achieved in the EU With particular focus on broadcasting the book examines existing albeit fragmented legislative and regulatory measures in competition law and other areas that contribute to this goal and sets forth ways to strengthen monitoring and transparency generate soft law with hard statements introduce a pluralism test in the EU Merger Regulation promote more public service media and foster media literacy Among many other issues arising in the course of the discussion the author describes and elucidates the following various types of integration of media companies and the different ways they affect pluralism and diversity limitations of must carry rules and principles of interoperability the diverging priorities of different European organizations institutions and bodies and contradictory lobbying efforts from industry actors The author places herself on the culture side of the culture commodity dilemma showing why it is vital for regulators to preserve media pluralism by counteracting excessive media concentration and safeguarding quality and diversity of content In this era which is transforming media and communications industries worldwide with an ever increasing plethora of delivery means without respect to national borders this book is an essential resource for regulators and other concerned policymakers as well as for lawyers working with any aspect of media

Broadcasting Pluralism and Diversity Lesley Hitchens, 2006-10-31 Broadcasting Pluralism and Diversity is a study of the policy and regulatory measures relating to the promotion of media diversity in three jurisdictions the United Kingdom the United States and Australia A central focus of the book is regulation of media ownership and control and taking an historical approach the book argues that early policy and regulatory decisions continue to have a significant influence on current reforms Whilst policy and reform debates focus on ownership and control measures the book also argues that such measures can not be considered in isolation from other regulatory instruments and that a holistic regulatory approach is required As such content regulation and competition regulation are also considered Underlying the study is the contention that much of the policy informing pluralism and diversity regulation although making reference to the importance of the media's role in the democratic process has also been skewed by a futile focus on the different regulatory treatment of the press and broadcasting which is adversely influencing current policy debates The book argues that a different approach using the public sphere concept needs to be adopted and used as a measure against which regulatory reform in the changing media environment can be assessed

Disability and Information Technology Eliza Varney, 2013-03-11 This book examines the extent to which regulatory frameworks for information and communication technologies safeguard the rights of persons with disabilities as citizenship rights

Human Rights and Civil Liberties Howard Davis, 2013-01-11 This book provides a wide ranging and accessible textbook covering the main areas of civil liberties and human rights law as it applies to England and Wales meeting the requirements of undergraduate law syllabuses The book sets out not only the legal rules common law and statutes which relate to the field of civil liberties and human rights but also the arguments and debates which have surrounded the development of an increasingly controversial area of the law looking at the background principles underlying it the coherence and consistency of the rules one to another and the social and political consequences of their application in practice Particular attention is paid to the impact of developments in Europe and especially to the Human Rights Act 1998 which has had an especial impact on the freedom to participate in determining public goals and the ability to preserve an area of personal autonomy The book also addresses the nature and impact of the major statutory reforms in areas such as surveillance protection of personal data and freedom of information and devotes as well a chapter to the increasingly prominent issue of terrorism and how the government and the law should respond

Competition, Regulation and the New Economy Cosmo Graham, Fiona Smith, 2004-10-11 In addition to being the principal medium for communication education and entertainment the new economy is now a leading provider of goods and services through electronic channels The new economy rides on the crest of new technological developments in computers telecommunications and satellites creating new interactive mediums and from the deregulation and privatization of state owned enterprises in the telecommunications and broadcasting sectors Whilst the economic viability of the dotcoms is questioned the existence of a new economy with novel methods of production distribution and exchange is here to stay Evidence of this is the fact that there are 300 million active computers in the world with 350 million people who use the world wide web expected to grow to one billion in four years and the speed of microprocessors continuously increases facilitating the use of IT The question which is pursued in the series of essays in this book is whether the conceptual underpinnings of competition law and international regulatory mechanisms are adequate or appropriate to deal with the developments raised by the new economy

Codifying Cyberspace Damian Tambini, Danilo Leonardi, Christopher T. Marsden, 2008 Can the Internet regulate itself Faced with a range of harms and conflicts associated with the new media from gambling to pornography many governments have resisted the temptation to regulate opting instead to encourage media providers to develop codes of conduct and technical measures to regulate themselves Codifying Cyberspace looks at media self regulation in practice in a variety of countries It also examines the problems of balancing private censorship against fundamental rights to freedom of expression and privacy for media users This book is the first full scale study of self regulation and codes of conduct in these fast moving new media sectors and is the result of a three year Oxford University study funded by the European Commission
