have been relatively few which direct attention to the distinct contributions that twentieth and twenty first century artists have made to gallery and museum interpretation practices There are fewer still that recognise the pedagogic potential of interventionist artworks in galleries and museums This book fills that gap and demonstrates how artists have been making curious but none the less useful contributions to museum education and curation for some time Claire Robins investigates in depth the phenomenon of artists interventions in museums and examines their pedagogic implications She also brings to light and seeks to resolve many of the contradictions surrounding artists interventions where on the one hand contemporary artists have been accused of alienating audiences and on the other appear to have played a significant role in orchestrating positive developments to the way that learning is defined and configured in museums She examines the disruptive and parodic strategies that artists have employed and argues for that they can be understood as part of a move to re establish the museum as a discursive forum This valuable book will be essential reading for students and scholars of museum studies as well as art and cultural studies

Narcissistic Mothers in Modernist Literature Marie G rardine Rademacher, 2019-09-13 Narcissistic mothers are an important motif in modernist literature Tracing its appearance in the works of writers such as D H Lawrence and Virginia Woolf this book questions the dichotomous image of either benevolent or suffocating mother which has pervaded religion art and literature for centuries Instead of focusing on the mother child dyad as characterized primarily by maternal domination and the child s submission Marie G raldine Rademacher insists on the definitional nuances of the term narcissism and considers the political and socio economic context of the time in shaping these women s narcissistic behavior The study thus inspires a more positive re reading of the protagonists
