Reinventing Eden:

Reinventing Eden Carolyn Merchant, 2013 Visionary quests to return to the Garden of Eden have shaped Western culture from Columbus voyages to today's tropical island retreats. Few narratives are so powerful and as Carolyn Merchant shows so misguided and destructive as the dream of recapturing a lost paradise. A sweeping account of these quixotic endeavors by one of America's leading environmentalists, Reinventing Eden traces the idea of rebuilding the primeval garden from its origins to its latest incarnations in shopping malls, theme parks, and gated communities. With eloquence and insight, Merchant shows how the drive to conquer nature and to explore and settle the globe springs from this utopian pastoral impulse throughout Western history. Time and again, human manipulation of the environment is our downfall. Eden is achieved by fencing off pristine beauty in national parks and wildlife preserves while leaving the majority of the earth in ruins. Challenging both narratives, Merchant argues that the green veneer of city park conservation has become a cover for the corruption of the earth and the neglect of its environment. Reinventing Eden is a bold new way to think about the earth that includes green political parties, sustainable development, and a partnership between humans and earth that is nothing short of an ecological revolution.

Embodiment and the New Shape of Black Theological Thought Anthony B. Pinn, 2010-06-01 Black theology tends to be a theology about no body. Though one might assume that black and womanist theology have already given significant attention to the nature and meaning of black bodies as a theological issue, this inquiry has primarily taken the form of a focus on issues relating to liberation, treating the body in abstract terms rather than focusing on the experiencing of a material, fleshy reality. By focusing on the body as a physical entity and not just a metaphorical one, Pinn offers a new approach to theological thinking about race, gender, and sexuality. According to Pinn, the body is of profound theological importance. In this first text on black theology to take embodiment as its starting point and its goal Pinn interrogates the traditional source materials for black theology such as spirituals and slave narratives seeking to link them to materials such as photography that highlight the theological importance of the body Employing a multidisciplinary approach spanning from the sociology of the body and philosophy to anthropology and art history Embodiment and the New Shape of Black Theological Thought pushes black theology to the next level

The Forest and the EcoGothic Elizabeth Parker, 2020-02-13 This book offers the first full length study on the pervasive archetype of The Gothic Forest in Western culture The idea of the forest as deep dark and dangerous has an extensive history and continues to resonate throughout contemporary popular culture The Forest and the EcoGothic examines both why we fear the forest and how exactly these fears manifest in our stories It draws on and furthers the nascent field of the ecoGothic which seeks to explore the intersections between ecocriticism and Gothic studies In the age of the Anthropocene this work importantly interrogates our relationship to and understandings of the more than human world This work introduces the trope of the Gothic forest as well as important critical contexts for its discussion and examines the three main ways in which this trope manifests as a living animated threat as a traditional habitat for monsters and as a dangerous site for human settlement This book will appeal to students and scholars with interests in horror and the Gothic ecohorror and the ecoGothic environmentalism ecocriticism and popular culture more broadly The accessibility of the subject of The Deep Dark Woods coupled with increasingly mainstream interests in interactions between humanity and nature means this work will also be of keen interest to the general public

Environmental Transformations Mark Whitehead, 2014-04-16 From the depths of the oceans to the highest reaches of the atmosphere the human impact on the environment is significant and undeniable These forms of global and local environmental change collectively appear to signal the arrival of a new geological epoch the Anthropocene This is a geological era defined not by natural environmental fluctuations or meteorite impacts but by collective actions of humanity Environmental Transformations offers a concise and accessible introduction to the human practices and systems that sustain the Anthropocene It combines accounts of the carbon cycle global heat balances entropy hydrology forest ecology and pedology with theories of demography war industrial capitalism urban development state theory and behavioural psychology This book charts the particular role of geography and geographers in studying environmental change and its human drivers It provides a review of critical theories that can help to uncover the socio economic and political factors that influence environmental change It also explores key issues in contemporary environmental studies such as resource use water scarcity climate change industrial pollution and deforestation These issues are mapped through a series of geographical case studies to illustrate the particular value of geographical notions of space place and scale in uncovering the complex nature of environmental change in different socio economic political and cultural contexts Finally the book considers the different ways in which nations communities and individuals around the world are adapting to environmental change in the twenty first century Particular attention is given throughout to the uneven geographical opportunities that different communities have to adapt to environmental change and to the questions of social justice this situation raises This book encourages students to engage in the scientific uncertainties that surround the study of environmental change while also discussing both pessimistic and more optimistic views on the ability of humanity to address the environmental challenges of our current era Integrating Ecofeminism, Globalization, and World Religions

Rosemary Radford Ruether, 2005 This book addresses the practical relevance of the interconnection of feminism ecology and religious theological thought and asks questions about the lack of attention to gender issues in both ecological theology and deglobalization theory The book looks at issues of globalization interfaith ecological theology ecofeminism and deglobalization movements comparatively across different world religions and across geographical regions Visit our website for sample chapters Recognizing the Autonomy of Nature Thomas Heyd, 2005-11-09

How do the ways in which we think about and describe nature shape the use and protection of the environment Do our seemingly well intentioned efforts in environmental conservation reflect a respect for nature or our desire to control nature s wildness The contributors to this collection address these and other questions as they explore the theoretical and practical implications of a crucial aspect of environmental philosophy and policy the autonomy of nature In focusing on the recognition and meaning of nature s autonomy and linking issues of metaphysics epistemology ethics and policy the essays provide a variety of new perspectives on human relationships to nature The authors begin by exploring what is meant by nature in what sense it can be seen as autonomous and what respect for the autonomy of nature might entail They examine the conflicts that arise between the satisfaction of human needs food shelter etc and the natural world The contributors also consider whether the activities of human beings contribute to nature s autonomy In their investigation of these issues they not only draw on philosophy and ethics they also discuss how the idea of nature s autonomy affects policy decisions regarding the protection of agricultural rural and beach areas The essays in the book s final section turn to management and restoration practices The essays in this section pay close attention to how efforts at environmental protection alter or reinforce the traditional relationship between humans and nature More specifically the contributors examine whether management practices as they are applied in nature conservation actually promote the autonomy of nature or whether they turn the environment into a client for policymakers

Theology, Creation, and Environmental Ethics Whitney Bauman, 2009-04-30 Winner of the John Templeton Award for Theological Promise 2009 This book argues that the Christian doctrine of creatio ex nihilo creation out of nothing sets up a support system for a logic of domination toward human and earth others Conceptually inspired by the work of theologian Catherine Keller and feminist philosopher of the environment Val Plumwood it follows a genealogical method in examining how the concept of creation out of nothing materializes in the world throughout different periods in the history of the Christian West Rethinking Wilderness Mark Woods, 2017-07-30 The concept and values of wilderness along with the practice of wilderness preservation have been under attack for the past several decades In Rethinking Wilderness Mark

Woods responds to seven prominent anti wilderness arguments Woods offers a rethinking of the received concept of wilderness developing a positive account of wilderness as a significant location for the other than human value adding properties of naturalness wildness and freedom Interdisciplinary in approach the book combines environmental philosophy environmental history environmental social sciences the science of ecology and the science of conservation biology

Wilderness or Home? Asebe Regassa Debelo, 2016 This book critically probes into the politics of nature conservation and commodification Building on political ecology the book argues that conservation is used by state and non state actors as an instrument of controlling multidimensional spaces of indigenous communities The study creates a nexus between the hegemonic discourse of wilderness conservation in colonial Africa and Ethiopia s appropriation of this narrative and how it internally exported it to its peripheries It found out that the successive Ethiopian regimes the imperial military and developmental state share commonalities in using nature conservation both for political control of societies and their territories and as a means of economic extraction through commodification Asebe Regassa Debelo is a graduate of the Bayreuth International Graduate School of African Studies BIGSAS Series Contributions to African Research Beitrage zur Afrikaforschung Vol 66 Subject Sociology African Studies
