

A painting of a street scene at dusk or dawn. A large, intense fire is burning in the center of the road, with thick black smoke rising into the sky. Several cars are visible: a red car on the left, a blue car in the center, and a dark car on the right. The street is wet, reflecting the light. In the background, there are trees and a building. The overall mood is dramatic and somber.

wanting to learn Formal Logic He could not find anyone in Quebec to teach him and he went to study at Harvard University under the supervision of W V Quine His best friend Maurice L Abbe had left a year earlier for Princeton to study with Alonzo Church After receiving his Ph D from Harvard in 1948 Leblanc started his professional career at Bryn Mawr College where he stayed until 1967 He then went to Temple University where he taught until his retirement in 1992 serving as Chair of the Department of Philosophy from 1973 until 1979
