The Dark Side of Translation Federico Italiano, 2020-02-06 We tend to consider translation as something good virtuous and bright but it can also function as an instrument of concealment silencing and misdirection as something that darkens and obscures. Propaganda misinformation narratives of trauma and imagery of the enemy to mention just a few of the negative phenomena that shape our lives show patterns of communication in which translation either functions as a weapon or constitutes a space of conflict. But what does this dark side of translation look like? How does it work? Ground breaking in its theoretical conception and pioneering in its thematic approach this book unites international scholars from a range of disciplines including philosophy translation studies literary theory ecocriticism game studies history and political science. With examples that illustrate complex theoretical and philosophical issues this book also has a major focus on the translational dimension of ecology and climate change. Transdisciplinary and topical this book is key reading for researchers scholars and advanced students of translation studies literature and related areas. Provincializing Europe Dipesh Chakrabarty, 2009-06-05 First published in 2000 Dipesh Chakrabarty's influential Provincializing Europe addresses the mythical figure of Europe that is often taken to be the original site of modernity in many histories of capitalist transition in non Western countries. This imaginary Europe Dipesh Chakrabarty argues is built into the social sciences. The very idea of historicizing carries with it some peculiarly European assumptions about disenchanted space secular time and sovereignty. Measured against such mythical standards capitalist transition in the third world has often seemed either incomplete or lacking. Provincializing Europe proposes that every case of transition to capitalism is a case of translation as well a translation of existing worlds and their thought categories into the categories and self understandings of capitalist modernity Now featuring a new preface in which Chakrabarty responds to his critics this book globalizes European thought by exploring how it may be renewed both for and from the margins and a critique that can serve to prompt a more thorough and open consideration of evaluative criteria this special issue of The Translator offers examinations of diverse evaluative practices and contains both empirical and hermeneutic work Topics addressed include the evaluation of student translations using more up to date and positive methods such as those employed in corpus studies the translation of non standard language translation into the second language terminology the application of theoretical criteria to practice a social textual perspective and the reviewing of literary translations in the press In addition reviews by a number of literary translators discuss specific translations both into and out of English
