A History of the Mediterranean Air War, 1940-1945 Christopher Shores, Giovanni Massimello, Russell Guest, Frank Olynk, Winfried Bock, 2016-08-05 The third volume in the epic military aviation series focuses on the Allied invasion of North Africa during World War II. This work of WWII history takes us to November 1942 to explain the background of the first major Anglo American venture Operation Torch, the invasion of French North Africa. Describing the fratricidal combat that followed the initial landings in Morocco and Algeria, it then considers the unsuccessful efforts to reach northern Tunisia before the Germans and Italians could get there to forestall the possibility of an attack from the west on the rear of the Afrika Korps forces then beginning their retreat from El Alamein. The six months of hard fighting that followed as the Allies built up the strength of their joint air forces and gradually wrested control of the skies from the Axis are recounted in detail. The continuing story of the Western Desert Air Force is told as it advanced from the east to join hands with the units in the west. Also covered are the arrivals over the front of American pilots and crew: the P 38 Lightning, the Spitfire IX and the B 17 Flying Fortress, and of the much feared Focke Wulf Fw 190. The aerial activities over Tunisia became one of the focal turning points of World War II yet are frequently overlooked by historians. Here the air-sea activities, the reconnaissance flights and the growing day and night bomber offensives are examined in detail.

Flak Edward B. Westermann, 2001. Air raid sirens wail, searchlight beams flash across the sky and the night is aflame with tracer fire and aerial explosions as Allied bombers and German anti-aircraft units duel in the thundering darkness. Such cinematic scenes played out with increasing frequency as World War II ground to a close. More than mere stock material for movie melodramas, as Edward Westermann reveals, they point to a key but largely unappreciated aspect of the German war effort that has yet to get its full due. Long the neglected stepchild in studies of World War II air campaigns, German flak or anti-aircraft units have been frequently dismissed by American, British and German historians and by veterans of the European air war as ineffective weapons that wasted valuable materiel and personnel resources desperately needed elsewhere by the Third Reich. Westermann emphatically disagrees with that view and makes a convincing case for the significant contributions made by the entire range of German anti-aircraft defenses. During the Allied air campaigns against the Third Reich, well over a million tons of bombs were dropped upon the German homeland, killing nearly 300,000 civilians, wounding another 780,000 and destroying more than 3,500,000 industrial and residential structures. Not surprisingly, that aerial Armageddon has inspired countless studies of both the victorious Allied bombing offensive and the ultimately doomed Luftwaffe defense of its own skies. By contrast, flak units have virtually been ignored despite the fact that they employed more than a million men and women, were responsible for more than half of all Allied aircraft losses, forced Allied bombers to fly far above high accuracy altitudes and thus allowed Germany to hold out far longer than it might have otherwise. Westermann's definitive study sheds new light on every facet of the development and organization of this vital defense arm.

bomber attacks FSAddon The Luftwaffe over Germany tells the story of one of the longest and most intense air battles in history The daylight air struggles over Germany during World War II involved thousands of aircraft dozens of units and hundreds of aerial engagements Until now there has been no single book that covers the complete story from the highest levels of air strategy to the individual tales of Fw 190s Bf 109s and Me 262s in air combat against the American bomber streams This ground breaking work explores the detrimental effect of Luftwaffe theory and doctrine on the German air arms ability to defend the homeland once the Allied Combined Bomber Offensive began in earnest By mid 1944 they had lost the battle but had exacted a terrible price from the Americans in the process The product of a ten year collaboration between two noted Luftwaffe historians this work fills a major gap in the literature of World War II The authors have examined original war diaries logbooks doctrine manuals after action reports and interviews with many combat veterans to produce a richly detailed account Illustrated with nearly two hundred photographs as well as new maps and diagrams this is the standard work on the subject Looking for a better book on the German air defense of the Third Reich in daylight during the war would probably be a useless endeavor A Wargamers Needful Things Survival From the Skies Colin Pateman, 2025-01-30 Many are the remarkable stories of the men who through good fortune or sheer determination survived the loss of their aircraft in the Second World War Depending on the circumstances these aircrew often became members of the Caterpillar Goldfish or Late Arrivals clubs as well as the famous Guinea Pig Club where membership was reserved to aircrew who were operated on by the legendary plastic surgeon Sir Archibald McIndoe Such individuals include Captain R L Morrison who was injured when his Curtiss P 40 Tomahawk was shot down over North Africa he was one of six aircraft brought down by the Luftwaffe Ace Hans Joachim Marseille in just eleven minutes Having survived his crash landing Morrison was eventually picked up by a South African armoured car unit operating behind enemy lines He finally reached Tobruk gaining membership of the Late Arrivals Club in the process from where he was evacuated just two days before the port city was taken by Rommel s Afrika Korps Then there is the story of Flight Lieutenant Charles Parish who was the sole survivor of the crew of a Wellington bomber which was shot down in the English Channel In pitch darkness Parish swam seven miles to reach the English coast supported only by his Mae West life preserver For this remarkable achievement Parish was admitted into the hallowed ranks of the Goldfish Club Other airmen who became a member of the Goldfish Club include rear gunner Sergeant Frederick Price who had been adrift at sea for six days before being rescued and navigator Brian Beecroft who survived not one but two ditchings at sea After parachuting to safety over France and in so doing gain membership of the Caterpillar Club Flight Engineer Kenneth Board evaded capture with the help of the Resistance Some however survived the horror of the downing of their aircraft only to land in the hands of the enemy Sergeant John Lord who became a member of the Caterpillar Club was one of these men he was killed in error while a prisoner of war Sergeant Cecil Room meanwhile had been adrift for three days before he was rescued by the Luftwaffe Often these men received gallantry
