

Crane's-bills and stork's-bills

Crane's-bills and stork's-bills are members of the geranium family which includes the geraniums of our summer gardens belonging to the genus Geranium, distinguished by their compound leaves with toothed lobes at the lower ends.

Crane's-bills are frequent on roadsides verges and in wet pastures. They have rounded leaves and flowers varying in colour from white to violet. Their flowers are usually in pairs with 5 sepals and 5 petals, sometimes as far apart as a point to three. The highest crane-bill is the long, lanceolate leafed G. lucidum which has 2-3 cm. rounded lobes and when open the lower part of each one springs up, helping out the seed.

There are five widespread annual crane's-bills usually under 20 cm. high with round and flat lobes which are given more than longer than long. Crane's-bill G. robertianum has 2-3 cm. rounded lobes at the bottom of its leaves, which have other rounded lobes towards the top. The distance between the lower and the upper lobes, short flowers with 5-7 sepals, 5-8 without petals. Moore,2021-10-25 This is a very personal account of the author s experiences in the field of conservation The book is divided into two distinct but related parts In the first he describes how some 40 years ago he acquired a bare field adjacent to his home in Cambridgeshire and transformed part of it into a private nature reserve with a wood a large pond and rough grassland He details his successes in trying to attract the wildlife which has subsequently colonized it as well as his failures In his words many people wish to encourage wildlife on their land but do not know exactly what to do or what they can expect to achieve In the second part he relates his own local experiences to the wider conservation scene Most people are still unaware of the fundamental importance of wildlife or its connection with our own survival and they are also unaware of the urgency of the measures our generation can and must take He considers how the failures of democratic governments to carry out crucial long term measures might be overcome The author s aims are to encourage farmers and owners of large gardens to create nature reserves by describing the pleasures which flow from such a project as well as to stimulate debate on conservation policy and on the role of governments nationally and internationally in furthering the conservation of our own species as well as that of wildlife currently a red hot topic British Wildlife ,2004 BBC Wildlife ,1993 Directory for the Environment Michael J.
