Scots Of Lore And Folklore:

Scottish Lore and Folklore Ronald MacDonald Douglas, 1982 Scottish Folk-Lore and Folk Life - Studies in Race, Culture and Tradition Donald Mackenzie, 2013-01-14 An intensive study of Scotland's folklore and a detailed evaluation of the characteristic features that brought Celtic lore into prominence This volume includes comparative notes and historical summaries of stories of alien intrusions settlements and expulsions First published in 1935 the data presented in this text was gathered from Scottish schools during the recruiting period of the Great War Featuring the following chapters The People Their Origins and History The Celtic Theory Intrusions of Aliens Language and Customs Swine Cults Sanctity and Abhorrence of Pig Giant Lore of Scotland Ancient Goddess Forms Fairies and Fairyland Demons of Land and Water Festivals and Ceremonies Scottish Lore and Folklore , 1990 Ancient Apostles, The History of Ancient America: Anterior to the Time of Columbus Proving the Identity of the Aborigines with the Tyrians, Israelites, Introduction of Christianity into the Western Hemisphere David Oman McKay, George Jones, The courteous reader in tracing the fate of Tecumseh as depicted in the pages of his life will not fail to observe the strong analogy between the religious sentiments of the chief of the forest and those of the ancient Hebrews The language as uttered by Tecumseh is not written by the pen of fiction merely to uphold a theory of the brain but gathered from the archives of a people's history to support a theory of apparent truth The present writer will not yield to any man in the firm belief that the Aborigines of North America but North America only and the ancient Israelites are identical unless controverted by the stern authority of superior historical deductions We therefore have formed an original theory in reference to the natives of the North and those of South and Central America together with the newly discovered ruined Cities in and around Guatamala and by that theory have separated into TWO distinct races or people the Aborigines of the Western Hemisphere The lately recovered Ruins Cities and Temples in Central America and of which no ancient record is to be found have shattered the chain of acknowledged History to atoms and until that chain is again united by a firmly established theory Education herself must pause ere she can with the wand of truth point to her rising children the History of the World or its inhabitants Suspicion has asserted that all the natives of the continent of Columbus might probably have been originally of Hebrew extraction the assertion has been made in doubt and trembling for writers have been confounded by essential contrasts in the Religious customs of North and South America there were no analogies between them which circumstance should have compelled Historians to pursue another path of inquiry and so attain a conclusive truth but they found a Gordian knot which they could not unravel and assuming the impatient weapon of Alexander they destroyed it The Architecture however of the Ruins of Copan Palenque Uxmal and their time honoured associates has furnished a rosetta stone to aid the new translation of the hieroglyphical history of now ancient America and if our theory is true not only have the Israelites walked the land where the Sun bestows his last smile but another nation in which was retained the primitive language of the Diluvian world previously trod that soil as Aborigines and beyond all this if our thread of Ariadne lead us faithfully if not the Almighty Father who gave the thought will pardon its application yes beyond all the bounding feelings leaping at events at once classic and venerated do we contemplate another branch of our theory for if we do not write in error and our perfect faith assures us that we do not then the trembling hand which sought in doubt The Saviour's wounds has been outstretched in sacred oratory even in those southern wilds the bold yet conquered voice which uttered in hallowed and confirmed faith My Lord and my God has given forth its missioned eloquence even in the Western Hemisphere and there the sainted ashes of that Apostle may yet repose The preceding extract may be viewed as the exordium of an original history to follow wherein if we fail it will be the boldness of the attempt and not the deed confounds us Taking as a basis for our illustration the rules of argument we will first identify one race and then prove that the existence of another is not only apparent but absolute For the convenience of the general reader the word Mexican until the true name is established will be applied throughout the following pages to all Central and South America for the word south may be confounded with that portion of the Republic of North America so denominated and especially with the American reader The fundamental error with all writers upon the Aborigines of America is that they have viewed them as one people Authors have therefore been confounded by the different customs and ceremonies of religion as practised in the two great divisions of the continent they have seen that the natives were to a certain extent in one part of the vast domain idolaters and not in the other that the North was essentially republican in every aspect of its political existence while that of Mexican America was as essentially composed of kingdoms and empires and governed by despotic monarchs and that republics were interwoven with them that each man in the North was a warrior and an equal acknowledging no superior but their leader in time of battle and should he fall in action there was not a member of the Tribe in which they politically lived but could have taken his place and filled it with similar courage and ability In Mexican America they were not equal but from the emperor they descended by degrees to the serf and slave in that country stone and stuccoed Temples and Palaces were and still continue to be found erected with costly magnificence and in which were jewelled idols to which they bent the knee their rich dwellings were splendid mansions adorned with sculptured and beaten gold and graced with the works of art and as a people enjoying all the refined elegancies of life but in the North their Temple was the azure canopy of Jehovah adorned with its myriads of golden stars and when beneath that sublime dome they bent the knee it was to the Almighty God alone Their palaces were the gorgeous vistas of the forest the columns were the gigantic trees each year increasing in their stateliness their shadowy and painted roofs were the far spreading branches and nature's tinted foliage their mansions were those of independent wanderers even the simple tents of Israel and as for jewelled idols and figures of beaten gold they presented the diamonds of the human eye radiant with intellectual beams and glancing from the living emblem of the first and priceless image placed in Eden's garden by the Architect of the Universe Notwithstanding these essential opposites in character and policy to which may be added that of physiognomy writers have glanced at them as one race sprung from the same branch of the human family and without defining which and when they could not reconcile such apparently unaccountable distinctions and diversities they have thrown upon the shoulders of the Mexican the mantle of manly virtue belonging to the North and upon this race they have thrust the idolatrous vices and the festering robes of luxury justly claimed by the former people and by this easy manner of disposing of a question have seemingly satisfied themselves that by blending the crimes of both to the exclusion of the virtues of either that they were all savages and no matter from whence they came Thus have they formed their conclusions concerning fifty millions of human beings although directly in opposition to evidences of fact to deductions by relative reasoning and to all Christian feeling which alone should have rejected so cruel a decision founded as it is not only on slight but careless investigation
