Infectious Diseases in Pregnancy, An Issue of Obstetrics and Gynecology Clinics Geeta K. Swamy,2014-11-26 This issue of Obstetrics and Gynecology Clinics of North America provides a summary of several more common maternal fetal infant infectious diseases Several experts in the field of maternal and perinatal infection have contributed to this issue to provide an overview of the up to date preventive strategies screening and diagnostic methods and treatment guidelines While guidelines such as universal vaccination to prevent influenza during pregnancy are fairly well justified by supporting data there is much uncertainty about the appropriate screening guidelines for conditions such as cytomegalovirus where the lack of a proven effective treatment diminishes the value of screening Moreover increasing issues of antibiotic resistance and the lack of significant advancement in developing newer effective agents imply that both providers and health care facilities must follow guidelines of antimicrobial stewardship ie coordinated efforts to improve and measure the appropriate use of antimicrobials It is our hope that this issue will aid providers in navigating these complex issues while also understanding the current state of the science Pediatric Nephrology Jose Strauss,2012-12-06 Infectious and non infectious tubulointerstitial nephropathies are old subjects but there is enough confusion and disagreement on terminology and etiopathogenesis to warrant a new look at these problems We were fortunate in having at the Pediatric Nephrology Seminar 6 and as contributors to this volume the representative or shall I say originators of each of the three most identifiable positions Dr Renee Habib congenital anomalies Dr John Hodson reflux and Dr Robert Heptinstall infection Although some tend to hold onto one position and exclude others in this case there was overlapping of perception Dr Habib accepts a role for infection in reflux and for infection in the presence of obstruction Dr Hodson accepts infection and congenital anomalies as modifiers and Dr Heptinstall takes an overall position which encompasses the three Thus the first part of the book emphasizes the complexity of something as seemingly simple as UTI and demonstrates awareness of disagreement even among the pros about meanings interpretations and treatment Drs Gustavo Gordillo Jorge de la Cruz and their associates emphasize the importance of predisposing factors for UTI Dr Materson focuses on the workup of the patient Dr Zilleruelo on bacteriological aspects and Dr Gorman on treatment approaches Dr Vaamonde reviews nephrotoxic agents Finally Drs Andres and Noble review the immunological aspects of various tubulointerstitial nephritides

New Microbiotests for Routine Toxicity Screening and Biomonitoring Guido Persoone, Colin Janssen, Wim De Coen, 2012-12-06 The determination of the hazards resulting from the accidental or deliberate contamination of terrestrial and aquatic environments is in most countries still limited to the detection and quantification of the suspected pollutants by chemical analyses Such an approach is unfortunately hampered by the following constraints the costs as well as the technical difficulties of analyzing every individual chemical which may be present in the samples and the difficulty of assessing the hazards and risks of environmental contaminations from a set of chemical data During the last decades the scientific and regulatory community has gradually realized that biological methodologies have to be taken into consideration for an ecologically meaningful assessment of the toxicological hazards of contaminants Effect evaluations obtained with biological techniques indeed integrate the impact of all the contaminants to which living biota are exposed Bioassays with selected test species representative for the biological communities of the environments under consideration are now applied more or less regularly to determine toxic and genotoxic effects Taking into account the species specific and chemical specific character of toxicity to biota the necessity of a battery of tests approach with species of different trophic levels is currently also generally accepted and implemented It is clear that a balanced partnership between chemical biological toxicological and microbiological analyses is always the best strategy for generating the broadest information base on environmental hazards
