Scribal Society An Essay On Literacy And Schooling In The Information Age:

The Scribal Society Alan Carroll Purves,1990 Magic, Rhetoric, and Literacy William A. Covino,1994-07-28 This book presents a selective introductory reading of key texts in the history of magic from antiquity forward in order to construct a suggestive conceptual framework for disrupting our conventional notions about rhetoric and literacy Offering an overarching pointed synthesis of the interpenetration of magic rhetoric and literacy William A Covino draws from theorists ranging from Plato and Cornelius Agrippa to Paulo Freire and Mary Daly and analyzes the different magics that operate in Renaissance occult philosophy and Romantic literature as well as in popular indicators of mass literacy such as The Oprah Winfrey Show and The National Enquirer Magic Rhetoric and Literacy distinguishes two kinds of magic rhetoric that continue to affect our psychological and cultural life today Generative magic rhetoric creates novel possibilities for action within a broad sympathetic universe of signs and symbols Arresting magic rhetoric attempts to induce automatistic behavior by inculcating rules and maxims that function like magic ritual formulas JUST SAY NO In this connection the literate individual is one who can interrogate arresting language and generate counter spells Resources in Education ,1991-10 Time to Write, Second Edition John Sylvester Lofty,2015-02-10 To read John s work is to take on the role of a patient listener A book like a piece of music is scored for time and I feel Time to Write is scored adagio I believe that Time to Write can be read as a critique of the time chopping approach to education and an argument for presence for being fully open to experience for being there To do good work we must enter something like island time or what John calls existential time or what is sometimes called flow when we lose at least temporarily a sense of clock time from the Foreword by Thomas Newkirk Twenty five years ago John Sylvester Lofty studied the influence of cultural time values on students resistance to writing instruction in an isolated Maine fishing community For the new edition of Time to Write Lofty returned to the island to consider how social and educational developments in the intervening years may have affected both local culture and attitudes toward education Lofty discovered how the island time values that previously informed students literacy learning have been transformed by outside influences including technology social media and the influx of new residents from urban areas Building on the ethnographic findings of the original study the new edition analyzes the current conflict between the digital age time values of constant connections and instant communication and those of school based literacy Lofty examines the new literacies now essential for students in a technologically connected world both those who aspire to continue the traditional island work of lobster fishing and for the many who now choose to pursue other careers and attend college on the mainland International Encyclopedia of Information and Library Science John Feather,Paul Sturges,2003-09-02 The International Encyclopedia of Information and Library Science was published to widespread acclaim in 1996 and has become the major reference work in the field This eagerly awaited new edition has been fully revised and updated to take full account of the many and radical changes which have taken place since the Encyclopedia was originally conceived With nearly 600

entries written by a global team of over 150 contributors the subject matter ranges from mobile library services provided by camel and donkey transport to search engines portals and the World Wide Web The new edition retains the successful structure of the first with an alphabetical organization providing the basic framework of a coherent collection of connected entries Conceptual entries explore and explicate all the major issues theories and activities in information and library science such as the economics of information and information management A wholly new entry on information systems and enhanced entries on the information professions and the information society are key features of this new edition Topical entries deal with more specific subjects such as collections management and information services for ethnic minorities New or completely revised entries include a group of entries on information law and a collection of entries on the Internet and the World Wide Web

Doing History Linda S. Levstik, Keith C. Barton, 2015-01-30 Now in its fifth edition Doing History offers a unique perspective on teaching and learning history in the elementary and middle grades Through case studies of teachers and students in diverse classrooms and from diverse backgrounds it shows children engaging in authentic historical investigations often in the context of an integrated social studies curriculum The premise is that children can engage in valid forms of historical inquiry collecting and analyzing data examining the perspectives of people in the past considering multiple interpretations and creating evidence based historical accounts Grounded in contemporary sociocultural theory and research the text features vignettes in each chapter showing communities of teachers and students doing history in environments rich in literature art writing discussion and debate The authors explain how the teaching demonstrated in the vignettes reflects basic principles of contemporary learning theory Doing History emphasizes diversity of perspectives in two ways readers encounter students from a variety of backgrounds and students themselves look at history from multiple perspectives It provides clear guidance in using multiple forms of assessment to evaluate the specifically historical aspects of children's learning

Handbook of Instructional Practices for Literacy Teacher-educators Joyce E. Many, 2001-01-01 This volume offers a unique glimpse into the teaching approaches and thinking of a wide range of well known literacy researchers and the lessons they have learned from their own teaching lives The contributors teach in a variety of universities programs and settings Each shares an approach he or she has used in a course and introduces the syllabus for this course through personal reflections that give the reader a sense of the theories prior experiences and influential authors that have shaped their own thoughts and approaches In addition to describing the nature of their students and the program in which the course is taught many authors also share key issues with which they have grappled over the years while teaching their course others discuss considerations that were relevant during the preparation of this particular syllabus or describe how it evolved in light of student input The book is organized by areas within literacy education reading English language arts literature emergent literacy content area literacy literacy assessment and instruction literacy and technology and inquiries into literacy theory and classroom practice It is accompanied by an interactive Web site <http://msit.gsu.edu/handbook> This online resource provides additional information about the authors courses including complete syllabi recommended readings grading rubrics and sample assignments Readers are invited to respond and contribute their own syllabi and teaching experiences to the discourse generated by the volume Writing and Learning in Cross-national Perspective David Foster,2017-10-03

Despite the increasingly global implications of conversations about writing and learning U S composition studies has devoted little attention to cross national perspectives on student writing and its roles in wider cultural contexts Caught up in our own concerns about how U S students make the transition as writers from secondary school to postsecondary education we often overlook the fact that students around the world are undergoing the same evolution How do the students in China England France Germany Kenya or South Africa the educational systems represented in this collection write their way into the communities of their chosen disciplines How for instance do students whose mother tongue is not the language of instruction cope with the demands of academic and discipline specific writing And in what ways is U S students development as academic writers similar to or different from that of students in other countries With this collection editors David Foster and David R Russell broaden the discussion about the role of writing in various educational systems and cultures Students development as academic writers raises issues of student authorship and agency as well as larger issues of educational access institutional power relations system goals and students roles in society The contributors to this collection discuss selected writing purposes and forms characteristic of a specific national education system describe students agency as writers and identify contextual factors social economic linguistic cultural that shape institutional responses to writing development In discussions that bookend these studies of different educational structures the editors compare U S postsecondary writing practices and pedagogies with those in other national systems and suggest new perspectives for cross national study of learning writing issues important to all educational systems Given the worldwide increase in students entering higher education and the endless need for effective writing across disciplines and nations the insights offered here and the call for further studies are especially welcome and timely Twentieth Century Reading Education:

Understanding Practices of Today in Terms of Patterns of the Past Gerard Giordano,2021-09-13 This book examines twentieth century reading education Among the major educational issues reviewed are testing diagnosis individualized education textbooks readability multiculturalism bi lingualism disability and technology The book explores attempts by educators and psychologists to answer theoretical as well as practical questions about why only some students developed literacy skills It examines the efforts to prevent reading failure as well as to aid those learners who had not learned to read The four types of remedial programs explored are skills based language based literature based and technology based The book identifies the social emotional physical and cognitive factors that have been linked to remedial reading instruction Based on a review of more than 3000 primary sources from the 1800s to the present extensive quotations have been integrated into the text to give readers a sense of intellectual involvement with the educators who are discussed

Multicultural Literature and Literacies Suzanne Miale Miller, Suzanne M. Miller, Barbara McCaskill, 1993-01-01 Does literature serve a humanizing function Can it achieve social transformation What roles does literature play for defining self creating community and achieving global perspective This is the first book to thoroughly explore the methods by which educators creative writers and policymakers have constructed workable models of teaching literature in multicultural classrooms The authors provide an interdisciplinary dialogue on the setbacks solutions silences and successes that often occur in classes of multicultural literature They all take the stance that definitions of literacy and literature originate as much outside the classroom as within it With the inclusion of essays by writers themselves a feature provided by no other book on this subject the authors offer a unique vocalization of the nationalistic economic empowering and moral purposes that reading and writing serve The book also includes a current guide to selected resources in multicultural literature in hopes of encouraging and facilitating instructors in the transformation of their own literature courses into multicultural ones
