Service, Satisfaction and Climate John Walker, 2010 Service Satisfaction and Climate Perspectives on Management in English Language Teaching presents the results of research carried out in New Zealand to demonstrate the ways ELT can be conceptualized in terms of service and climate Although ESL is a major worldwide service industry employing large numbers of professionals and serving millions of clients it is an under researched field and one that is under represented in the management business literature This omission is particularly noticeable given that ELT has its own particular themes problems and issues For instance ELT is an educational service yet exists within a commercial context Its clients are from different cultural and linguistic backgrounds In many ELT contexts the cultural and linguistic backgrounds of the service providers are different from those of the clients Thus the service provision has a strong cross cultural dimension Yet the ELT sector is largely missing from the educational and the management literature This book seeks to fill the gap through discussion of ELT as a service issues surrounding ELT teachers as service providers the work of ELT managers client expectations and perceptions of ELT service comparison of staff estimates and client ratings of service quality and considerations of service milieu and climate in ELT centers

Service Science, Management and Engineering Bill Hefley, Wendy Murphy, 2008-01-08 Increasingly academic and industrial leaders are recognizing that college graduates need new skills to address business and technical issues in a service business environment Because services depend critically on people working together and with technology to provide value for others these new skills include the ability to integrate across traditional disciplinary areas to obtain globally effective solutions Service Science Management and Engineering SSME is one such approach to properly focusing education and research on services and to preparing tomorrow's graduates to work in an expanding services economy Papers in this volume were developed from the 2006 conference hosted by IBM

Service Quality and Management Bernd Stauss, Jos Lemmink, Paul Kunst, 2013-06-29 Introduction Are services millennium proof Certainly not At least not at this moment There is no thorough research needed to derive that conclusion simply ask around The evidence is overwhelming True horror stories exist of all types of services in all types of sectors It is even becoming a business in itself Television shows that are based on customer complaints about services are becoming more and more popular As is the case in the millennium problem management of service companies experiences a lot of problems in the hardware and the software of services There are still problems in defining and developing the service and problems in creating realizing and managing well defined services Is there then no progress at all We believe there is The enormous attention for services has its advantages as well In various places innovations are realized and what is more important are linked to theory Only in this way learning becomes possible Eventually innovative practice will reflect in the development of theory and in turn good practice will be based on solid theory This series tries to support this process by presenting a number of innovative practices and examples of testing theory in service quality marketing and management
