Service Imperative For Libraries:

Reference and Information Services Richard E. Bopp, Linda C. Smith, 2011-05-23 Reflecting the dramatic changes shaped by rapidly developing technologies over the past six years this new fourth edition of Reference and Information Services takes the introduction to reference sources and services significantly beyond the content of the first three editions. In Part I Concepts and Processes chapters have been revised and updated to reflect new ideas and methods in the provision of reference service in an era when many users have access to the Web. In Part II Information Sources and Their Use discussion of each source type has been updated to encompass key resources in print and on the Web where an increasing number of freely available sources join those purchased or licensed by libraries. A number of new authors are contributors to this new edition bringing to their chapters their experience as teachers of reference and as practitioners in different types of libraries. Discussions of services in Part I integrate digital reference as appropriate to each topic such as how to conduct a reference interview online using instant messaging. Boxes interspersed in the text are used to present scenarios for discussion to highlight key concepts or to present excerpts from important documents. Discussions of sources in Part II place more emphasis on designing effective search strategies using both print and digital resources. The chapter on selection and evaluation of sources addresses the changing nature of reference collections and how to evaluate new types of sources. Each chapter concludes with an updated list of additional readings to guide further study. A new companion website will provide links to Web accessible readings and resources as well as additional scenarios for discussion and example search strategies to supplement those presented in the text.

The Evaluation and Measurement of Library Services Joseph R. Matthews, 2017-10-27 This guide provides library directors, managers and administrators in all types of libraries with complete and up to date instructions on how to evaluate library services in order to improve them. It is a fact today's libraries must evaluate their services in order to find ways to better serve patrons and prove their value to their communities. In this greatly updated and expanded edition of Matthews' seminal text you will discover a breadth of tools that can be used to evaluate any library service including newer tools designed to measure customer and patron outcomes. The book offers practical advice backed by solid research on virtually every aspect of evaluation including quantitative and qualitative tools, data analysis and specific recommendations for measuring individual services such as technical services and reference and interlibrary loan. New chapters give readers effective ways to evaluate critical aspects of their libraries such as automated systems, physical space, staff performance, management frameworks, eBooks, social media and information literacy. The author explains how broader and more robust adoption of evaluation techniques will help library managers combine traditional internal measurements such as circulation and reference transactions with more customer centric metrics that reflect how well patrons feel they are served and how satisfied they are with the library. By applying this comprehensive strategy readers will gain the ability to form a truer picture of their library's value to its stakeholders and patrons.

Continuing Education of Reference Librarians William A. Katz, 1990 Here is a crucial book on the neglected issue of continuing education of reference librarians. For librarians seeking to enhance and maintain a high level of quality reference work and for managers who must assure that their staffs receive the basics in continuing education, this is essential reading. Continuing Education of Reference Librarians addresses the concerns of all librarians that they must be informed and educated in order to excel in their work. In the first several chapters of this comprehensive volume on the job, librarians focus on the increased need for nontraditional approaches to continuing education and training of reference staff. They offer practical ways of making additional training both useful and relatively easy to carry out within the library setting. Teachers of reference offer suggestions for contending with current formal courses and they also examine the responsibilities of not only the reference librarian but also the bibliographer and faculty member in staying abreast of current trends. Also in this broad-based look at continuing education is a list of critical skills most librarians expect of their reference people including reference interview techniques, mastery of basic reference sources and an understanding of new technologies, a review of the most revolutionary change in teaching reference librarianship in the last 100 years, the online search and a discussion on ethics including the need for librarians to be aware of the basic documents of the American Library Association and more importantly the need to treat all library users equally in terms of access and service regardless of status and personal prejudice. Continuing Education of Reference Librarians focuses on specific types of training for librarians. Authorities explain pioneering programs in California and Maryland which deal with teaching basic reference tools to beginning librarians and paraprofessionals. They also discuss the role of multitype networks in continuing education as the most cost and time efficient means available today and the use of self-directed contract learning as a method that requires long-term planning and rewards in contrast to the immediate results of a short-term plan.

of education The management perspective of continuing education is also included Working library directors offer their observations on sound inspirational approaches to continuing education They also examine the critical role department heads play as mentor to beginning reference librarians
