Compendium D. LEVY, 2013-06-29 For many years I have been interested in computer chess and have collected almost every learned paper and article on the subject that I could find My files are now quite large and a considerable amount of time effort and expense has been required to build up this collection I have often thought how difficult it must be for many computer chess enthusiasts to acquire copies of articles that they see referenced in some other work Unless one has access to a good reference library the task is almost impossible I therefore decided to try to make available in one volume as many as possible of the most interesting and important articles and papers ever written on the subject Such a selection is naturally somewhat subjective and I hope that I will not offend authors whose works have been excluded In particular I have decided to exclude any material which has appeared in the Journal of the International Computer Chess Association ICCA or in its precursor the ICCA Newsletter The reason is simply that the ICCA itself is in the process of compiling a compendium containing the most important material published in those sources For further information on ICCA membership and publications the reader is invited to contact Professor H 1 van den Herik or Dr Jonathan Schaeffer University of Limburg Computing Science Dcpaitment Department of Computer Science University of Alberta 6200 MD Maastricht Edmonton Netherlands Alberta Canada T6G 2HI St. Nicholas Mary Mapes Dodge, 1916 Seven Strategies of Highly Effective Readers Elaine K. Mathematical Reasoning Lyn D. English, 2013-04-03 How we reason with mathematical ideas continues to be a fascinating and challenging topic of research particularly with the rapid and diverse developments in the field of cognitive science that have taken place in recent years Because it draws on multiple disciplines including psychology philosophy computer science linguistics and anthropology cognitive science provides rich scope for addressing issues that are at the core of mathematical learning Drawing upon the interdisciplinary nature of cognitive science this book presents a broadened perspective on mathematics and mathematical reasoning It represents a move away from the traditional notion of reasoning as abstract and disembodied to the contemporary view that it is embodied and imaginative From this perspective mathematical reasoning involves reasoning with structures that emerge from our bodily experiences as we interact with the environment these structures extend beyond finitary propositional representations Mathematical reasoning is imaginative in the sense that it utilizes a number of powerful illuminating devices that structure these concrete experiences and transform them into models for abstract thought These thinking tools analogy metaphor metonymy and imagery play an important role in mathematical reasoning as the chapters in this book demonstrate yet their potential for enhancing learning in the domain has received little recognition This book is an attempt to fill this void Drawing upon backgrounds in mathematics education educational psychology philosophy linguistics and cognitive science the chapter authors provide a rich and comprehensive analysis of mathematical reasoning New and exciting perspectives are presented on the nature of mathematics e.g. mind based mathematics on the array of powerful cognitive tools for reasoning e.g. analogy and metaphor and on the different ways these tools can facilitate mathematical reasoning Examples are drawn from the reasoning of the preschool child to that of the adult learner Chess Player's Chronicle ,1841 The British Chess Magazine ,1898 The Grasp of Consciousness (Psychology Revivals) Jean Piaget,2015-10-05 Originally published in English in 1976 the book draws on and extends our knowledge of the process of learning The subject of the study is the general stage in a child s development that comes between his successful performance of an activity without knowing how he did it that is what he had to do in order to succeed and the times when he becomes aware of what went into that action The book reports the results of experiments conducted at the Centre of Genetic Epistemology Children ranging in age between four and adolescence were asked to perform such tasks as walking on all fours playing tiddlywinks building a ramp for a toy car They were then asked to explain how they had performed the task and in some cases to instruct the interviewer Their answers show a number of surprising inaccuracies in the child s ability to grasp the nature of what he has done Taking a broad view of his results Piaget shows that they reveal several stages in the gradual development of the child s conceptualization of his actions In analysing each stage Piaget argues that the child s concept of his own action cannot be considered a simple matter of enlightenment but must actively be reconstructed from his experience This view has always been at the core of Piaget s work and a new area of the child s mental world is here given definitive treatment
