Seven Victorian Architects:

Seven Victorian Architects Jane Fawcett, 1977 Historicism a reliance on inspiration by styles of the past was the dominant aspect of Victorian architecture The individual architect's response to earlier styles however varied widely and one of the hallmarks of a creative career was the architect's handling of his chosen precedents This study presents the largely unpublished work of seven English architects tracing influences on their individual styles and provides a cross section of some of the most characteristic themes and qualities of Victorian architecture The seven architects included are William Burn Philip and P C Hardwick Sydney Smirke J I Pearson G F Bodley Alfred Waterhouse and Edwin Lutyens Social technological and functional aspects of architecture during this period are explored from several viewpoints in the works of these individual practitioners In addition to the expected country houses and churches other building types included are railway terminals libraries docks shopping areas museums hospitals and working class housing Seven Victorian Architects Jane Fawcett, 1976-01-01 Seven Victorian Architects Jane Fawcett, 1977 Seven Victorian Architects Jane Fawcett, 1976 Seven Victorian Architects Jane Fawcett, 1977 Directory of British Architects, 1834-1914 Antonia Brodie, British Architectural Library, Royal Institute of British Architects, 2001-12-20 A comprehensive biographical directory of some 11 000 British architects who worked between 1834 and 1914 The Ruskin Polygon John Dixon Hunt, Faith M. Holland, 1982 Toronto Architect Edmund Burke Angela Carr, 1995-05-30 Burke's career spanned a key period in Canadian architecture as the profession transcended its colonial beginnings to reach maturity with Canadian born practitioners who converted both American architectural developments and European traditions into forms appropriate to the new Canadian federation Burke's contributions to Canadian architecture include introducing the technology of the Chicago men to Canada and helping to establish a formal professional organization for architects in Ontario Carr documents a comprehensive selection of Burke's works including his firm's famous Robert Simpson store in Toronto the first curtain wall construction in Canada She places Burke's life and career within the larger social context addressing the influence of American architects and architecture the sociology of professions the organization of architectural offices and the history of particular building forms Toronto Architect Edmund Burke is not only a study of Burke's life and work it is also an insightful look into the history of Canadian architecture Historic Floors Jane Fawcett, 2007-06-01 This is the first book in the UK to be devoted to historic floors It introduces an important and largely neglected subject and considers conservation methods in a European context It traces the history of some of the great floors of Europe from the fourth century B C and outlines the development of mosaic tiles marble and parquet floors in secular buildings The early Christian pavements in basilicas temples and cathedrals the creation of medieval tiles ledger stones and monumental brasses their destruction by iconoclasts and re creation during the Gothic Revival are also discussed Leading authorities archaeologists architects and archivists consider the latest methods of recording and repairing cathedral floors including those of cathedrals country houses the monumental tiled pavements of the Palace of Westminster and other public buildings Management policies to protect outstanding floors in over visited sites are considered and historic features particularly at risk are identified Urgent action is recommended to contain the damage caused by the dramatic increase in tourism throughout Europe Seven Victorian Architects ,1976 Paradise Preserved Max F. Schulz,1985 Examines the ways in which the idea of an earthly paradise inspired English life and thought in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Continental Crosscurrents J. B. Bullen,2005-08-25 Continental Crosscurrents is a series of case studies reflecting British attitudes to continental art during the nineteenth and the early twentieth centuries It stresses the way in which the British went to the continent in their search for origins or their pursuit of sources of purity and originality This cult of the primitive took many forms it involved a reassessment of medieval German and Italian art and offered new ways of interpreting Venetian painting it opened up new readings of architectural history and the discovery of the Romanesque it generated a debate about the value of returning to religious subjects in art and it raised the question of the relationship between modern art and Byzantine art in the early twentieth century J B Bullen s original study presents some exciting findings Few critics have noticed how much in advance of his time was Coleridge s passion for medieval art Ruskin s debt in the Stones of Venice to Victor Hugo s Notre Dame de Paris has hardly been noted and Browning s involvement with the debate on the morality of Christian art is explored more extensively than previously Three chapters are devoted to the role of British criticism in identifying the Romanesque style in architecture and differentiating it from the Gothic They trace the concept as it arose in criticism at the beginning of the nineteenth century its employment in the remarkable buildings of Edmund Sharpe and Sara Losh and the way in which it reached a climax in Waterhouse s enigmatic choice of Romanesque for the Natural History Museum in London The collection concludes with two continental episodes from the history of modernism One is the explosive British reaction to the primitivism of Gauguin the other involves the identifying of one of the characters in D H Lawrence s novel Women in Love Curious evidence suggests that the malevolent figure of Loerke was based on a German sculptor whom Lawrence met in Italy before the First World War St Albans Abbey: The Excavation of the Chapter House 1978 Martin Biddle,Birthe Kjølbye-Biddle,Megan Kirkpatrick,Francis M. Morris,2024-06-13 Excavations at the site of the medieval chapter house of St Albans Abbey in 1978 uncovered fragments of decorated floor tiles of the Anglo Saxon abbey and associated burials along with the magnificent floor of relief decorated tiles of the medieval chapter house and the graves of 16 known figures of the late 11th to 15th century abbey The Oxford Handbook of Quaker Studies Stephen W. Angell,Pink Dandelion,2013-09-26 Quakerism began in England in the 1650s George Fox credited as leading the movement had an experience of 1647 in which he felt he could hear Christ directly and inwardly without the mediation of text or minister Convinced of the authenticity of this experience and its universal application Fox preached a spirituality in which potentially all were ministers all part of a priesthood of believers a church levelled before the leadership of God Quakers are a fascinating religious group both in their original peculiarity and in the variety of reinterpretations of the faith since The way they have interacted with wider society is a basic but often unknown part of British and American history This handbook charts their history and the history of their expression as a religious community This volume provides an indispensable reference work for the study of Quakerism It is global in its perspectives and interdisciplinary in its approach whilst offering the reader a clear narrative through the academic debates In addition to an in depth survey of historical readings of Quakerism the handbook provides a treatment of the group s key theological premises and its links with wider Christian thinking Quakerism s distinctive ecclesiastical forms and practices are analysed and its social economic political and ethical outcomes examined Each of the 37 chapters considers broader religious social and cultural contexts and provides suggestions for further reading and the volume concludes with an extensive bibliography to aid further research

Hatherley,2016-03-01 When communism took power in Eastern Europe it remade cities in its own image transforming everyday life and creating sweeping boulevards and vast epic housing estates in an emphatic declaration of a noncapitalist idea The regimes that built them are now dead and long gone but from Warsaw to Berlin Moscow to postrevolutionary Kiev the buildings remain often populated by people whose lives were scattered by the collapse of communism Landscapes of

Communism is a journey of historical discovery plunging us into the lost world of socialist architecture Owen Hatherley a brilliant witty young urban critic shows how power was wielded in these societies by tracing the sharp sudden zigzags of official communist architectural style the superstitious despotic rococo of high Stalinism with its jingoistic memorials palaces and secret policemen s castles East Germany s obsession with prefabricated concrete panels and the metro systems of Moscow and Prague a spectacular vindication of public space that went further than any avant garde ever dared Throughout his journeys across the former Soviet empire Hatherley asks what if anything can be reclaimed from the ruins of Communism what residue can inform our contemporary ideas of urban life
