The Significance of the Temple Incident in the Narratives of the Four Gospels Deolito V. Vistar, 2018-11-08 Deolito Vistar brings a new perspective to the interpretation of the temple incident a key event in Jesus life by approaching the subject not from the historical Jesus point of view but from that of the authors of the Gospels Using composition criticism as a method Vistar sensitively analyzes the four Gospels accounts of the incident and shows areas of commonalities and crucial areas where the four evangelists have their own distinctive understanding of what Jesus meant by his protest in the temple This book is a helpful example of the use of composition analysis in the exegesis of Gospel texts It is also a helpful study of what is now generally taken for granted in Gospel scholarship that the four evangelists were both historians and theologians The American Schoolmaster, 1920 North Carolina Education

, 1920 The Land is a Map Luise Hercus, Flavia Hodges, Jane Simpson, 2009-03-01 The entire Australian continent was once covered with networks of Indigenous placenames These names often evoke important information about features of the environment and their place in Indigenous systems of knowledge On the other hand placenames assigned by European settlers and officials are largely arbitrary except for occasional descriptive labels such as river lake mountain They typically commemorate people or unrelated places in the Northern hemisphere In areas where Indigenous societies remain relatively intact thousands of Indigenous placenames are used but have no official recognition Little is known about principles of forming and bestowing Indigenous placenames Still less is known about any variation in principles of placename bestowal found in different Indigenous groups While many Indigenous placenames have been taken into the official placename system

they are often given to different features from those to which they originally applied In the process they have been cut off from any understanding of their original meanings Attempts are now being made to ensure that additions of Indigenous placenames to the system of official placenames more accurately reflect the traditions they come from The eighteen chapters in this book range across all of these issues The contributors linguistics historians and anthropologists bring a wide range of different experiences both academic and practical to their contributions The book promises to be a standard reference work on Indigenous placenames in Australia for many years to come

Disaster Songs as Intangible Memorials in Atlantic Canada Heather Sparling, 2022-12-30 Disaster Songs as Intangible Memorials in Atlantic Canada draws on a collection of over 600 songs relating to Atlantic Canadian disasters from 1891 up until the present and describes the characteristics that define them as intangible memorials The book demonstrates the relationship between vernacular memorials informal memorials collectively and spontaneously created from a variety of objects by the general public and disaster songs The author identifies the features that define vernacular memorials and applies them to disaster songs spontaneity ephemerality importance of place motivations and meaning making content as well as the role of media in inspiring and disseminating memorials and songs Visit the companion website www.disastersongs.ca

Out of Place John B. Lyon, 2013-02-28 In late nineteenth century Germany the onset of modernity transformed how people experienced place In response to increased industrialization and urbanization the expansion of international capitalism and the extension of railway and other travel networks the sense of being connected to a specific place gave way to an unsettling sense of displacement Out of Place analyzes the works of three major representatives of German Realism Wilhelm Raabe Theodor Fontane and Gottfried Keller within this historical context It situates the perceived loss of place evident in their texts within the contemporary discourse of housing and urban reform but also views such discourse through the lens of twentieth century theories of place Informed by both phenomenological Heidegger and Casey as well as Marxist Deleuze Guattari and Benjamin approaches to place John B. Lyon highlights the struggle to address issues of place and space that reappear today in debates about environmentalism transnationalism globalization and regionalism

Wordsworth's Poetry, 1815-1845 Tim Fulford, 2019-02-08 The later poetry of William Wordsworth popular in his lifetime and influential on the Victorians has with a few exceptions received little attention from contemporary literary critics In Wordsworth's Poetry 1815-1845 Tim Fulford argues that the later work reveals a mature poet far more varied and surprising than is often acknowledged Examining the most characteristic poems in their historical contexts he shows Wordsworth probing the experiences and perspectives of later life and innovating formally and stylistically He demonstrates how Wordsworth modified his writing in light of conversations with younger poets and learned to acknowledge his debt to women in ways he could not as a young man The older Wordsworth emerges in Fulford's depiction as a love poet of companionate tenderness rather than passionate lament He also appears as a political poet bitter at capitalist exploitation and at a society in which vanity is rewarded while poverty is blamed Most notably he stands out as a history poet more probing and more clear sighted than any of his time in his understanding of the responsibilities and temptations of all who try to memorialize the past Land, Development and Design Paul Syms, 2010-08-13 Development of brownfield land can address shortfalls in the availability of land for housing and other buildings but these sites present a range of problems that must be overcome in any successful development Land Development and Design addresses all of the issues in the context of the reuse of urban land providing a solid readable overview of the principles and practice of the regeneration of brownfield sites Divided into four parts covering the development process and planning policies site assessment risk analysis and remediation of contaminated land development issues and finally design issues the principal focus of the book is on the reuse of urban land It includes a full discussion of contaminated land so that readers are aware of the issues and options available to resolve this problem Land Development and Design has been extensively revised since its first edition and provides final year undergraduate and postgraduate students of both planning and surveying as well as professional planners surveyors and developers a solid and readable overview of the principles and practice of regeneration of the built environment

Television And Everyday Life Roger Silverstone, 1994-05-19 Television is a central dimension in our everyday lives and yet its meaning and its potency varies according to our individual circumstances mediated by the social and cultural worlds which we inhabit In this fascinating book Roger Silverstone explores the enigma of television and how it has found its way so profoundly and intimately into the fabric of our everyday lives His investigation of great significance to those with a personal or professional interest in media film and television studies unravels its emotional and cognitive spatial temporal and political significance Drawing on a wide range of literature from psychoanalysis to sociology and from geography to cultural studies Silverstone constructs a theory of the medium which locates it centrally within the multiple realities and discourses of everyday life Television emerges from these arguments as the fascinating complex and contradictory medium that it is but in the process many of the myths that surround it are exploded This outstanding book presents a radical new approach to the medium of television one that both challenges received wisdoms and offers a compellingly original view of the place of television in everyday life In the Shadow of the Seawall Summer Gray, 2023-09-12 In the Shadow of the Seawall journeys to the edge of the sea to understand the existential dilemma of seawalls alongside struggles for resilience and adaptation In coastal management debates seawalls are a deeply contested subject between those in favor of hard structures for mitigating the impacts of sea change and those who advocate measures modeled on natural processes Summer Gray argues that both approaches involve limited notions of resilience that undermine movements for social and climate justice and introduces the concept of placekeeping the struggle to resist colonizing practices of displacement as a justice oriented framework for addressing the global dangers of coastal disruption Drawing on a mix of ethnographic observation interviews and archival research Gray shows how competing logics of adaptation play out on the ground in Guyana and the Maldives to reveal how seawalls are entrenched in relationships of power and entangled in processes of making and keeping place

Philosophies of Place Peter D. Herschok, Roger T. Ames, 2019-06-30 Humanity takes up space Human beings like many other species also transform spaces What is perhaps uniquely human is the disposition to qualitatively transform spaces into places that are charged with distinctive kinds of intergenerational significance There is a profound felt difference between a house as domestic space and a home as familial place or between the summit of a mountain one has climbed for the first time and the same rock pinnacle celebrated in ancestral narratives Contemporary philosophical uses of the word place often pivot on the distinction between space and place formalized by geographer philosopher Yi fu Tuan who suggested that places incorporate the experiences and aspirations of a people over the course of their moral and aesthetic engagement with sites and locations While spaces afford possibilities for different kinds of presence physical emotional cognitive dramatic spiritual places emerge as different ways of being present fuse over time and saturate a locale with distinctively collaborative patterns of significance This approach to issues of place however is emblematic of what Edward S Casey has argued are convictions about the primacy of absolute space and time that evolved along with the progressive dominance of the scientific imagination and modern imaginations of the universal The recent reappearance of place in Western philosophy represents a turn away from abstract and a priori reasoning and back toward phenomenal experience and the primacy of embodied and emplaced intelligence Places are enacted through the sustainably shared practices of mutually responsive and mutually vulnerable agents and are as numerous in kind as we are divergent in the patterns of values and intentions The contributors to this volume draw on resources from Asian European and North American traditions of thought to engage in intercultural reflection on the significance of place in philosophy and of the place of philosophy itself in the cultural social economic and political domains of contemporary life The conversation of place that results explores the meaning of intercultural philosophy the critical interplay of place and personal identity the meaning of appropriate emplacement the shared place of politics and religion and the nature of the emotionally emplaced body

Cultural and Heritage Tourism in Asia and the Pacific Bruce Prideaux, Dallen Timothy, Kaye Chon, 2013-09-13 The Asia Pacific region's enormous diversity of living cultures and preserved heritage sites has significant appeal to many tourists However tourism has grown so rapidly that many issues associated with the incorporation of cultural and heritage experiences in tourist itineraries such as authenticity verses commodification exploitation of national cultures impacts on local communities and the management of heritage resources have not been adequately addressed and must be debated This revealing book reviews recent developments in cultural and heritage tourism in the Asia Pacific region and provides a discussion on how communities have faced and overcome significant challenges to develop and market their culture and heritage resources A range of models and case studies are used to deepen the reader's understanding of heritage and cultural issues to illustrate many of the more controversial issues and to examine new evaluative and planning tools This book is a special issue of the Asia Pacific Journal of Tourism Research

The King's Hall Within the University of Cambridge in the Later Middle Ages Alan B. Cobban, 2007-01-11 A detailed study of the King's Hall Cambridge from its foundation in the early fourteenth century until its dissolution in 1546. It is based largely on the 26 extant volumes of the King's Hall accounts which form one of the most remarkable sequences of medieval collegiate records in Europe. The rich profusion of the material has made it possible to reconstruct the economic constitutional and business organisation of a medieval academic society thereby providing for the college that same kind of exhaustive treatment which has been lavished upon other categories of medieval institutions. Dr Cobban discusses the vital contribution made by the King's Hall to the evolution of the University of Cambridge and shows how the interpretation of medieval Cambridge history has to be considerably modified. He demonstrates the important formative influence of the King's Hall in shaping the course of English collegiate development and the ways in which this College was finely attuned to the new educational trends of the age.

Living the Global City John Eade, 2003-10-04. Politicians and academics alike have made globalization the key reference point for interpreting the 1990s. For many, globalization threatens both community and the nation state. It appears to represent forces beyond human control. Living the Global City documents globalization's impact on everyday lives by drawing on research rather than rhetoric and arrives at a very different perspective. Living the Global City offers an analysis of globalization and global local processes by focussing on specific issues and themes which include community culture, milieu, socioscapes and sociospheres, microglobalization, poverty, ethnic identity and carnival. By advancing the debates which surround these issues through a redefinition of the terms in which they have been developed and engagement with the everyday lives of people in a global city, this book reveals how such key concepts as community culture, class, poverty and identity can be reconceptualized in the context of global local processes.

Dreaming of a Glacier Matthias Egeler, Stefanie Gropper, 2020-06-16. Sn fellsj kull is one of Iceland's most famous volcanoes. It is there that Jules Verne located the entrance to the centre of the earth; it is the abode of a medieval saga hero and the location of one of Halldór Laxness's novels. Travellers, painters, poets and film makers have been drawn to it in equal measure while at the same time and against all expectations others seem unfazed as famous as the mountain is on a national and international stage. Local folklore and medieval historiography have amazingly little interest in it. Clearly Sn fellsj kull is not the same to everyone. This volume presents a survey of the place of Sn fellsj kull in the Icelandic and European imagination. It adapts the paradigm of geocriticism which shifts the focus of the scholarly investigation from the work of individual authors to the multitude of views that different authors, artists and practitioners have on a single place. The results of the perambulation of Sn fellsj kull presented here show that both its cultural and literary history as well as the paradigm of geocriticism open up broad vistas that amply repay the effort necessary to tackle this mountain.
