Racing to the Bottom? Kathryn Harrison, 2011-11-01 The spectre of a race to the bottom is increasingly prominent in debates about globalization and also within federal systems where the mobility of both capital and individuals prompts fears of interjurisdictional competition with respect to taxes and environmental and welfare standards While there has been no shortage of either political rhetoric or academic theorizing on this subject empirical studies have been in shorter supply This volume seeks to fill that gap by asking Are Canadian provinces engaged in a race to the bottom and if so what are the consequences The contributors apply insights from economics and political science to several policy fields What emerges is a theoretical and empirical picture of interprovincial competition that shows it to be more complex than the popular image of a race to the bottom and that also contradicts predictions of an inexorable downward spiral This timely practical volume will be of interest to public policy practitioners as well as to students and scholars of economics and political science

The Second Wave Philip Scranton, 2001 Though it had helped define the New South era the first wave of regional industrialization had clearly lost momentum even before the Great Depression These nine original case studies look at how World War II and its aftermath transformed the economy culture and politics of the South From perspectives grounded in geography law history sociology and economics several contributors look at southern industrial sectors old and new aircraft and defense cotton textiles timber and pulp carpeting oil refining and petrochemicals and automobiles One essay challenges the perception that southern industrial growth was spurred by a disproportionate share of federal investment during and after the war In covering the variety of technological managerial and spatial transitions brought about by the South s second wave of industrialization the case studies also identify a set of themes crucial to understanding regional dynamics investment and development workforce training planning cost containment and environmental concerns equal employment opportunities rural to urban shifts and the decay of local economies entrepreneurship and coordination of supply service and manufacturing processes From boardroom to factory floor the variety of perspectives in The Second Wave will significantly widen our understanding of the dramatic reshaping of the region in the decades after 1940 Advancing Adult Workforce Skills David Walter Stevens,1992 Beyond Foreign
