Sternberg,David D. Preiss,2022-11-19 This book reflects on the various ways in which intelligence can manifest itself in the wide range of diverse contexts in which people live Intelligence is often viewed as being tantamount to a score or set of scores on a decontextualized standardized intelligence test But intelligence always acts within a sociocultural context Indeed early theorists defined intelligence in terms of adaptation to the environment in which one lives The tradition of decontextualization is old dating back to the very beginning of the 20th century with the development of the Binet Simon Intelligence Scales This tradition is not only old however but obsolete Because people live in different sociocultural as well as physical environments intelligence can take somewhat different forms in different places and even at different times The chapters in this edited volume show that intelligence viewed in the abstract is a somewhat vacuous concept it needs to be contextualized in terms of people s physical and sociocultural surroundings Between China and Europe João de Pina-Cabral,2020-08-13 From the mid 1500s to December 1999 Macao was the longest standing site of economic religious and political contact between the Chinese and European worlds Yet this surprising capacity for survival has resulted ironically form the very weakness of the Portuguese presence In particular since the foundation of Hong Kong in 1840 Macao had depended on a creative use of its marginality as a centre for gambling for the coolie trade the opium trade the semi clandestine gold trade and so on As a rear window on China Macao provides us with fascinating examples of marginality that allow us to study the limits of the systems that characterize the Chinese world New-York Observer ,1907
