New Essays on The American ,2000 New Essays on The American ,1987 New Essays on The American ,1987
New Essays on Uncle Tom's Cabin Eric J. Sundquist,1986-11-28 A critical and historical interpretation of Uncle Tom's Cabin reflecting the best of recent scholarship New Essays on The American , Women and the U.S. Constitution, 1776-1920 Jean H. Baker,2009 As a result American women played a peripheral role in constitutional history until 1920 This pamphlet looks at this role as it developed throughout the nineteenth century culminating in 1920 with the passing of the women's suffrage amendment in 1920 Nobody's Home Arnold Weinstein,1993-03-11 Nobody's Home is a bold view of the American novel from its beginnings to the contemporary scene Focusing on some of the deepest instincts of American life and culture individual liberty freedom of speech constructing a life Arnold Weinstein brilliantly sketches the remarkable career of the American self in some of the major works of the past one hundred fifty years Weinstein contends that American writers are haunted by the twin specters of the self as a mirage as Nobody and by the brutal forces of culture and ideology that deny selfhood to people on the basis of money sex and color of skin His central thesis is that language makes possible freedoms and accomplishments that are achievable in no other realm and that American fiction is a fascinating record of the human fight against coercion of the kinds of maneuvering room that we may find in life and in art This study is unique in several respects it offers some of the keenest readings of major American texts that have ever been written including some of the most significant works of the past decades and it fashions a rich and supple view of the American novel as a writerly form of freedom in sharp contrast to today's critical emphasis on blindness and coercion William Faulkner's The Sound and the Fury Harold Bloom,2008 Presents critical essays reflecting a variety of schools of criticism for The sound and the fury No Place in Time Sharon B. Oster,2018-11-12 An exploration of the temporal function that the Jew plays in literature No Place in Time The Hebraic Myth in Late Nineteenth Century American Literature examines how the Hebraic myth in which Jewishness became a metaphor for an ancient pre Christian past was reimagined in nineteenth century American realism The Hebraic myth while integral to a Protestant understanding of time was incapable of addressing modern Jewishness especially in the context of the growing social and national concern around the Jewish problem Sharon B Oster shows how realist authors consequently cast Jews as caught between a distant past and a promising American future In either case whether creating or disrupting temporal continuity Jewishness existed outside of time No Place in Time complicates the debates over Eastern European immigration in the 1880s and questions of assimilation to a Protestant American culture The first chapter begins in the world of periodicals an interconnected literary culture out of which Abraham Cahan emerged as a literary voice of Jewish immigrants caught between nostalgia and a messianic future outside of linear progression Moving from the margins to the center of literary realism the second chapter revolves around Henry James's modernization of the noble Hebrew as a figure of mediation and reconciliation The third chapter extends this analysis into the naturalism of Edith Wharton who takes up questions of intimacy and intermarriage and places the Jew at the nexus of competing futures shaped by uncertainty and risk A number of Jewish female perspectives are included in the fourth chapter that recasts plots of cultural assimilation through intermarriage in terms of time if a Jewish past exists in tension with an American future these writers recuperate the Hebraic myth for themselves to imagine a viable Jewish future No Place in Time ends with a brief look at poet Emma Lazarus whose understanding of Jewishness was distinctly modern not nostalgic mythical or dead No Place in Time highlights a significant shift in how Jewishness was represented in American literature and as such raises questions of identity immigration and religion This volume will be of interest to scholars of nineteenth and turn of the century American literature American Jewish literature and literature as it intersects with immigration religion or temporality as well as anyone interested in Jewish studies

The Fugitive's Properties Stephen M. Best, 2010-05-15 In this study of literature and law before and since the Civil War Stephen M Best shows how American conceptions of slavery property and the idea of the fugitive were profoundly interconnected The Fugitive's Properties uncovers a poetics of intangible personified property emerging out of antebellum laws circulating through key nineteenth century works of literature and informing cultural forms such as blackface minstrelsy and early race films Best also argues that legal principles dealing with fugitives and indebted persons provided a sophisticated precursor to intellectual property law as it dealt with rights in appearance expression and other abstract aspects of personhood In this conception of property as fleeting indeed fugitive American law preserved for much of the rest of the century slavery's most pressing legal imperative the production of personhood as a market commodity By revealing the paradoxes of this relationship between fugitive slave law and intellectual property law Best helps us to understand how race achieved much of its force in the American cultural imagination A work of ambitious scope and compelling cross connections The Fugitive's Properties sets new agendas for scholars of American literature and legal culture
