Gardens of Madeira—Gardens of the World Beata Elżbieta Cieszyńska, José Eduardo Franco, Ana Cristina da Costa Gomes, 2020-05-15 The volume Gardens of Madeira Gardens of the World Contemporary Approaches displays present tendencies in calling upon the idea of gardens being a wide range approach to their literary sociological and cultural representations The book's four parts Madeira A Garden in the Sea Gardens as Temporal and Spatial Category Cultural and Literary Approaches Gardens as an Expression Socio cultural Perspectives and Re Creating the Archetypal Garden Discourses and Practices refer to vast geographical and cultural areas starting with the very complex sample of the overseas yet European Island of Madeira and then joining the exemplification material from historical and contemporary European communities with some luso centric accents including examples from the less known Slavonic and Eastern European countries Those European issues are confronted with various non European societies such as from Africa Asia and both Americas Gardens evoke and express in many ways the present human condition and as such a process goes on this book provides proposals for patterns to connect them to the modern and post modern rules of self defining reading the Other interpreting world national cultural literatures as well as to the various attempts to introduce the idea of gardens into the basic spatial and temporal aspects of contemporary communities It also demonstrates the theoretical and practical attempts to project our gardens dependence on to one of the essentials for contemporary societies which are multicultural urbanised technologically equipped and dependent but which still are keen on reading and constructing paradises as environmental and cultural spaces for both asylum and encounter The huge advantage of the book is showing to scholars and the wider public how discourses from the past meet with the quests of both the Humanities and the Sciences for gardening inspirations not only for the sake of the today's societies but also when projecting the future of the Earth

The Architectural Review, 1899 Johnson, Johnson and Roy Fiona Gruber, 2003 Steeped in a strong Midwestern tradition of naturalism JJR embraces the tenets of respecting and working with the inherent natural features of a landscape JJR's projects address the complex relationship between humans and their environment It believes that good design goes hand in hand with good planning a process that encompasses everything from civil engineering and landscape architecture to environmental science urban planning and much more The work of JJR responds to the local and regional context blending the natural with the built and the site with the community More than forty projects are examined in detail in this superb monograph projects include university campuses sustainable environments vital cities building communities and waterfront projects all are presented with colour photography maps plans and drawings

published a series of articles in the British Architectural Review that rejected the prevailing English landscape style Inspired by the principles of Modernist art and Japanese aesthetics Tunnard called for a new technique in garden design that emphasized an integration of form and purpose The functional garden avoids the extremes both of the sentimental expressionism of the wild garden and the intellectual classicism of the formal garden he wrote it embodies rather a spirit of rationalism and through an aesthetic and practical ordering of its units provides a friendly and hospitable milieu for rest and recreation Tunnard's magazine pieces were republished in book form as Gardens in the Modern Landscape in 1938 and a revised second edition was issued a decade later Taken together these articles constituted a manifesto for the modern garden its influence evident in the work of such figures as Lawrence Halprin Philip Johnson and Edward Larrabee Barnes Long out of print the book is here reissued in a facsimile of the 1948 edition accompanied by a contextualizing foreword by John Dixon Hunt Gardens in the Modern Landscape heralded a sea change in the evolution of twentieth century design and it also anticipated questions of urban sprawl historic preservation and the dynamic between the natural and built environments Available once more to students practitioners and connoisseurs it stands as a historical document and an invitation to continued innovative thought about landscape architecture
