Third Series* Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1973 John U. Monro Toni-Lee Capossela, 2012-12-17 In 1967 John U Monro dean of the college at Harvard left his twenty year administrative career at that prestigious university for a teaching position at Miles College an unaccredited historically black college on the outskirts of Birmingham Alabama This unconventional move was a natural continuation of Monroe's life-long commitment to equal opportunity in education. A champion of the underprivileged, Monroe embodied both the virtues of the Greatest Generation and the idealism of the civil rights era. His teaching career spanned more than four decades and, as biographer Toni Lee Capossela demonstrates, his influence reached well beyond his lifetime. In addition to being a talented administrator, Monroe was a World War II veteran, a crusading journalist, a civil rights proponent, and a spokesman for the fledgling Peace Corps. His dedication to social justice outlasted the fervor of the 1960s and fueled bold initiatives in higher education. While at Harvard, he developed a financial aid formula that became the national template for needs-based scholarships and earned him the title "The Father of Modern Financial Aid." During his decade at Miles College, he spearheaded a satellite freshman program in the economically depressed Greene County, then went on to help design a literacy program, a senior research requirement, and a writing across the curriculum program at Tougaloo College. When hearing and memory loss drove him from the classroom, he moved his base of operations to Tougaloo's Writing Center, working with students in a collaborative relationship that suited his personality and teaching style. Only in 1996, after struggling with the symptoms of Alzheimer's for several years, did he retire with great reluctance.

John U. Monroe, Uncommon Educator, is a tribute to this passionate teacher and an affirmation of how one person can inspire many to initiate positive and lasting change.

Sidewalks and Pavements, Dušan Gabrovšek, 2003 Guide to Materials for English as a Second Language, 1981

This guide is a catalog of materials currently available for English as a second language (ESL) instruction at the elementary, secondary, and adult levels. It is intended for educators who are attempting to meet the needs of immigrants, refugees, and non-English speaking U.S. natives of all language backgrounds. Over 460 entries are included, ranging from textbooks for basic courses to a wide variety of supplementary and audiovisual materials. Each entry lists the following information: title, author, editor, publisher, and address; year of publication; proficiency level; type of material; skill development area; emphasized target grade level; and a broad category designation.

Author: AMH Philippine Journal of Linguistics, 1984 Games Language People Play, Jerry Steinberg, 1983

Learning a new language can be very demanding, but it can also be good fun, and in between the hard work of language acquisition, there are opportunities for breaks from the regular classroom routine where what has been learned is put to rewarding and practical use. Games Language People Play provides teachers with a variety of language games to make the teaching and learning of a new language an occasion for enjoyable competitiveness. There are 110 games in all, ranging in level from Beginners to Advanced. Each game carries an indication of the language skill or combination of skills being employed: reading, writing, listening, speaking, and the optimal group size, from as few as 10 students to games suitable for classes of unlimited size. The game's instructional objective, for example, vocabulary expansion, the materials needed, a full description, and additional suggestions are all provided, with all that remains being for you and
