New International Financial Architecture and Korean Perspectives, 2001 New International Financial Architecture and Korean Perspectives Tae-jun Kim, 2001 New International Financial Architecture and Korean Perspectives Tae-jun Kim, 2001 The Asian Financial Crisis: New International Financial Architecture Shalendra Sharma, 2003-10-03 The Asian financial crisis of 1997-98 shook the foundations of the global economy. What began as a localized currency crisis soon engulfed the entire Asian region. What went wrong and how did the Asian economies long considered miracles respond? How did the United States, Japan and other G-7 countries react to the crisis? What role did the IMF play? Why did China remain conspicuously insulated from the turmoil raging in its midst? What lessons can be learnt from the crisis by other emerging economies? This book provides answers to all the above questions and more. It gives a comprehensive account of how the international economic order operates, examines its strengths and weaknesses and what needs to be done to fix it. The book will be vital to students of economics, international political economy, Asian and development studies. The IMF and its Critics David Vines, Christopher L. Gilbert, 2004-02-26 The IMF is the first economic institution in line to protect countries from the effects of financial crises and to insulate the world economy from possible systemic risk. However, many argue that the IMF is insufficiently equipped to do this job while others argue almost the opposite: the IMF's well-intentioned actions induce other countries to take risks which increase their exposure from both universities and the multilateral agencies. Combines rigorous economic analysis with insider perspectives on key policy debates. It analyses the Asian and Argentine financial crises of the late 1990s, issues of policy ownership, the more general quest for financial stability and governance of the IMF. It is an essential reference for anyone interested in the role of international financial institutions in our globalised economy. Reforming the International Financial Architecture Il SaKong, 2000 The Politics of the New International Financial Architecture Susanne Soederberg, 2004-11 This is a critique of the attempts of the G7 industrialized countries to rewrite the rules of international finance. It includes case studies on capital controls from Chile and Malaysia and is aimed at scholars and students of international political economy and development and reform activists. Financial Inclusion, Innovation, and Investments Ralph D. Christy, Vicki L. Bogan, 2011 1 How can financial markets and biotechnology help the rural poor? Ralph D. Christy and weitere 2 Financial development and growth: what role can foreign capital play? Eswar Prasad and weitere 3 The securitization of microloans. Vicki L. Bogan 4 A vision for scaling microfinance: more than dollars and smarts. Deborah Burand 5 Innovations in index insurance for the poor in low income countries. Jerry Skees 6 Overcoming poverty through improved agricultural technology. Robert W. Herdt 7 Agricultural biotechnology in Latin America: economic benefits, regional capacity and policy options. Greg Traxler 8 Biotechnology, agriculture and food security in Southern Africa: strategic policy challenges and opportunities. The IMF and East Asia Gordon De Brouwer,2002 East Asia Forum Quarterly , Recent Trends in U.S. Services Trade, 2008 Annual Report, Inv. 332-345 , Global Governance Rorden Wilkinson,Stephen Hughes,2002 This book provides critical perspectives on the role of global institutions such as the United Nations World Trade Organization International Monetary Fund and the World Bank The G-20 Initiative for a new international financial architecture Christian Kuhne,2012-07-06 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject Economics Macro economics general grade 1 7 University of Applied Sciences Berlin language English abstract This assignment reviews the different initiatives of the G 20 for a new international financial architecture and their implementation by different countries It provides also some aspects of criticism to the different reforms actions and initiatives as not all of them appear appropriate to address the root causes of the financial crisis in the best way Financial Stability Issues:The Case of East Asia Mamiko Yokoi-Arai,2002-07-08 Whatever can be said about the financial crises that have plagued East Asian countries since the early 1990s it must be averred that they teach us a great deal Many earlier assumptions about finance and investment have been called into question and the field is more open than it has been in many decades to legal and economic analysis and theory In particular issues of financial sector reform have come into sharp focus Here is a new proposal solidly grounded in current reality for a regional zone of law designed to supplement and benefit domestic reforms under way in Japan and the three emerging economies of Indonesia South Korea and Thailand The author draws on a wide range of relevant material including exploration of international standards and best practices in banking and finance the experience of the U S and the U K in planning and implementing reform measures and the theoretical literature respecting financial crises and what causes them In this context the specific reforms applied in the four Asian countries under consideration are discussed in detail with lessons to be learned about crisis detection containment and prevention During the course of the analysis the author reveals fundamental policy areas where meaningful and effective reform can take place Financial Stability Issues The Case of East Asia offers numerous practical applications at the same time as it strikes a rich vein of theory in the field Its fresh sensible approach will be greatly appreciated not only by academic theorists but by hardheaded business people policymakers and regulators as well

Critical and Feminist Perspectives on Financial and Economic Crises Sakiko Fukuda-Parr,James Heintz,Stephanie Seguino,2017-10-02 Economic and financial crises have become perennial features of today s global economy Macroeconomic theories of crisis including the global crisis that unfolded in 2008 emphasize the role of financial deregulation capital flow imbalances and growing debt fueled by income and wealth inequality These approaches tend to be divorced from feminist thinking which analyzes broader distributional dynamics transmitted through structural channels and government policy responses with an emphasis on gender race class and ethnicity This volume brings together innovative thinking from heterodox macroeconomists and feminist economists to explore the causes consequences and ramifications of economic crises By doing so it highlights aspects of the economy that are frequently overlooked or ignored such as the impact of crises on the vast amount of unpaid work which women perform relative to men The collection of international studies assembled here takes an innovative approach to analyzing a range of issues from the subprime mortgage crisis to the gendered effects of austerity to the role of the International Monetary Fund in governing an unstable global economy In so doing it looks beyond causes and consequences and points to new directions for macroeconomic and financial policy This book was originally published as a special issue of Feminist Economics

The IMF and the Politics of Financial Globalization B. Thirkell-White,2005-08-02 The Asian crisis triggered ongoing controversy over the IMF s role in a new international financial architecture This book argues for a political approach to crisis and reform placing current debates in the context of the politics of financial regulation since Bretton Woods It explores links between domestic political controversy over IMF policy in Indonesia Korea Malaysia and the United States and the broader politics of IMF decision making It argues that unless political arrangements are reformed the IMF will face further political challenges
