New Leaves:

Upaniṣads Patrick Olivelle, 1998 The Upanisads are the central scriptures of Hinduism They represent some of the most important literary products in the history of Indian culture and religion both because they played a critical role in the development of religious ideas in India and because they are our greatest source for the religious social and intellectual history of ancient India Composed at a time of great social economic and religious change the Upanisads document the transition from the archaic ritualism of the Veda into new religious ideas and institutions The first major English translation of the ancient Upanisads for over half a century Olivelle's work incorporates the most recent historical and philological scholarship The introduction and detailed notes make this edition ideal for the non specialist as well as for students of Indian religions The Plant Disease Reporter, 1977 The Edinburgh Journal of Science ... Poison Damsels N.M. Penzer, 2016-05-06 First published in 2004 These four classic masterpieces in esoteric research by the noted orientalist M Penzer explore customs and traditions from other cultures and periods of history which for all their apparent strangeness mask fundamental subjects of continuing interest The first concerns the motif of the poison damsel the beauty who dealt death in many forms to her admirers which originated in India was prevalent in medieval Europe and persists today in the belief of the femme fatale The volume includes a study in the ancient Tale of the Two Thieves an essay on sacred prostitution in India the ancient East and West Africa and an exhaustive treatment of the custom of chewing the betel or areca nut which is widespread in the far East from India through Indonesia to New Guinea A natural stimulant and narcotic whose effects are similar to that of tobacco betel is of growing interest to the medical world and has as the author shows here a rich legacy of customs and belief

The Ecology of Tropical East Asia Richard T. Corlett, 2019-06-27 Tropical East Asia is home to over one billion people and faces massive human impacts from its rising population and rapid economic growth It has already lost more than half of its forest cover to agriculture and urbanization and has the highest rates of deforestation and logging in the tropics Habitat loss coupled with hunting and the relentless trade in wildlife products threatens all its large and many of its smaller vertebrates Despite these problems the region still supports an estimated 15-25% of global terrestrial biodiversity and a growing environmental awareness means that it is no longer assumed that economic development justifies environmental damage and no longer accepted that this trade off is inevitable Effective conservation action now depends on integrating a clear understanding of the ecological patterns and processes in the region with the varied needs of its human population This third edition continues to provide an overview of the terrestrial ecology of Tropical East Asia from southern China to Indonesia and from Bhutan and Bangladesh to the Ryukyu Islands of Japan It retains the balance between compactness and comprehensiveness of the previous editions and the even handed geographical treatment of the whole region but it updates both the contents and the perspective Approximately one third of the text is new or greatly modified reflecting the explosion of new research in the region in the last few years and the increasing use of new tools particularly from genomics and remote sensing The change in perspective largely reflects the growing realization that we are in a new epoch the Anthropocene in which human activities have at least as large an influence as natural processes and that stopping or reversing ecological change is no longer an option This does not mean that biodiversity conservation is no longer possible or worthwhile but that the biodiverse future we strive for will inevitably be very different from the past The Ecology of Tropical East Asia is an advanced textbook suitable for senior undergraduate and graduate level students taking courses on the terrestrial ecology of the East Asian tropics as well as an authoritative regional reference for professional ecologists conservationists and interested amateurs worldwide
