New Living In Old Houses:

New Living in Old Houses Frank Werner, 1982 To restore or to renovate or to remodel this is a choice that faces many owners and potential owners of older structures In the introduction to this illuminating book the author points out that the major part of the activity in this field is undertaken in the interests of restoration but that the line dividing the three categories is often blurred His thirty seven case histories from the United States and Europe show in great detail the sensitive and creative fashion in which architects and architectural firms have tackled the problem NGOization Aziz Choudry, Dip Kapoor, 2013-07-11 The growth and spread of non governmental organizations NGOs at local and international levels has attracted considerable interest and attention from policy makers development practitioners academics and activists around the world But how has this phenomenon impacted on struggles for social and environmental justice How has it challenged or reinforced the forces of capitalism and colonialism And what political economic social and cultural interests does this serve NGOization the professionalization and institutionalization of social action has long been a hotly contested issue in grassroots social movements and communities of resistance This book pulls together for the first time unique perspectives of social struggles and critically engaged scholars from a wide range of geographical and political contexts to offer insights into the tensions and challenges of the NGO model while considering the feasibility of alternatives

Old-House Journal , 2004-05 Old House Journal is the original magazine devoted to restoring and preserving old houses For more than 35 years our mission has been to help old house owners repair restore update and decorate buildings of every age and architectural style Each issue explores hands on restoration techniques practical architectural guidelines historical overviews and homeowner stories all in a trusted authoritative voice Renovate an Old House?
