Localizing the Internet John Postill, 2011-08-01 Internet activism is playing a crucial role in the democratic reform happening across many parts of Southeast Asia Focusing on Subang Jaya a suburb of Kuala Lumpur this study offers an in depth examination of the workings of the Internet at the local level In fact Subang Jaya is regarded as Malaysia's electronic governance laboratory The author explores its field of residential affairs a digitally mediated social field in which residents civil servants politicians online journalists and other social agents struggle over how the locality is to be governed at the dawn of the Information Era Drawing on the field theories of both Pierre Bourdieu and the Manchester School of political anthropology this study challenges the unquestioned predominance of network and community as the two key sociation concepts in contemporary Internet studies The analysis extends field theory in four new directions namely the complex articulations between personal networking and social fields the uneven diffusion and circulation of new field technologies and contents intra and inter field political crises and the emergence of new forms of residential sociality

Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities Youqin Huang, Si-ming Li, 2014-03-05 In recent decades Chinese cities have experienced profound social economic and spatial transformations In particular Chinese cities have witnessed the largest housing boom in history and unprecedented housing privatization China now is a country of homeowners with more than 70 per cent of urban residents owning homes higher than many developed countries This book shows how China's spectacular housing success is not shared by all social groups with rapidly rising housing inequality and residential segregation increasingly prevalent in previously homogeneous Chinese cities It focuses on the two extremes of the residential landscape and reveals the stark contrast between low income households who live in shacks in so called urban villages and the nouveaux riches who live in exclusive gated villa communities Over four parts the contributors look at the degree to which inequality affects Chinese cities and the extent of residential differentiation housing for the urban poor and in particular housing for migrants from rural China housing for the rapidly expanding Chinese middle class and the new rich and finally governance in residential neighbourhoods Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities presents theoretically informed and empirically grounded research into the polarized residential landscape in Chinese cities and as such will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese studies urban geography urban sociology and urban studies

Public and Situated Displays K. O'Hara, M. Perry, E. Churchill, D. Russell, 2013-03-09 Public and situated display technologies can have an important impact on individual and social behaviour and present us with particular interesting new design considerations and challenges While there is a growing body of research exploring these design considerations and social impact this work remains somewhat disparate making it difficult to assimilate in a coherent manner This book brings together the perspectives of key researchers in the area of public and situated display technology The chapters detail research representing the social technical and interactional aspects of public and situated display technologies The underlying concern common to these chapters is how these displays can be best designed for collaboration coordination community building and mobility Presenting them together allows the reader to examine everyday display activities within the context of emerging technological possibilities

Community in the Digital Age Andrew Feenberg, Darin Barney, 2004-07-19 Is the Internet the key to a reinvigorated public life Or will it fragment society by enabling citizens to associate only with like minded others Online community has provided social researchers with insights into our evolving social life As suburbanization and the breakdown of the extended family and neighborhood isolate individuals more and more the Internet appears as a possible source for reconnection Are virtual communities real enough to support the kind of personal commitment and growth we associate with community life or are they fragile and ultimately unsatisfying substitutes for human interaction Community in the Digital Age features the latest most challenging work in an important and fast changing field providing a forum for some of the leading North American social scientists and philosophers concerned with the social and political implications of this new technology Their provocative arguments touch on all sides of the debate surrounding the Internet community and democracy Virtual Community Practices and Social Interactive Media: Technology Lifecycle and Workflow Analysis Akoumianakis, Demosthenes, 2009-04-30 Provides an analysis of virtual communities explaining their lifecycle in terms of maturity based models and workflows Political and Civic Leadership Richard A. Couto, 2010-09-14 This work within The SAGE Reference Series on Leadership provides undergraduate students with an authoritative reference resource on political and civic leadership This 2 volume set focuses on the 100 most important topics issues question and debates specific to politics and civic society Entries provide students with more detailed information and depth of discussion than typically found in an encyclopedia entry while avoiding much of the jargon detail and density one might find in a journal article or a research handbook chapter Key Features Includes entries written by a global panel of renowned experts Offers broad coverage of important of the moment topics related to political and civic leadership including explorations of the personalities and environments of political leaders leadership roles in governance and allegiance citizen activists and civic engagement political campaigning urban politics and leadership public management ethics in politics policy development and implementation executive management of public opinion political speechmaking and the bully pulpit congressional leadership crisis management and more Considers the history of political and civic leadership with examples from the lives of pivotal figures as well as the institutional settings and processes that lead to both opportunities and constraints unique to the political realm Provides students with more depth than usual encyclopedic entries while avoiding the jargon detail and density of more advanced works Features an approachable and clear writing style with appeal to undergraduate researchers and offers a list of further readings after each entry as well as a detailed index and an online version of the work to maximize accessibility for today s students Maintaining Community in the Information Age Karen F. Evans, 2004-09-30 By exploring the experiences of community activists and organizations working with information and communication technology ICT to build communities this book offers a grounded and informed study of the role ICT plays in people s lives The author emphasizes the importance of networks built around trust shared spaces and local knowledge bases in the formation of significant relationships in contemporary Western societies and in doing so questions many of the assumptions which inform the rhetorics of the information age
