Memories of War Thomas A. Chambers, 2012-09-18 Even in the midst of the Civil War its battlefields were being dedicated as hallowed ground Today those sites are among the most visited places in the United States In contrast the battlegrounds of the Revolutionary War had seemingly been forgotten in the aftermath of the conflict in which the nation forged its independence Decades after the signing of the Constitution the battlefields of Yorktown Saratoga Fort Moultrie Ticonderoga Guilford Courthouse Kings Mountain and Cowpens among others were unmarked except for crumbling forts and overgrown ramparts Not until the late 1820s did Americans begin to recognize the importance of these places In Memories of War Thomas A Chambers recounts America's rediscovery of its early national history through the rise of battlefield tourism in the first half of the nineteenth century Travelers in this period Chambers finds wanted more than recitations of regimental movements when they visited battlefields they desired experiences that evoked strong emotions and lent meaning to the bleached bones and decaying fortifications of a past age Chambers traces this impulse through efforts to commemorate Braddock's Field and Ticonderoga the cultivated landscapes masking the violent past of the Hudson River valley the overgrown ramparts of Southern war sites and the scenic vistas at War of 1812 battlefields along the Niagara River Describing a progression from neglect to the Romantic embrace of the landscape and then to ritualized remembrance Chambers brings his narrative up to the beginning of the Civil War during and after which the memorialization of such sites became routine assuming significant political and cultural power in the American imagination facets of the fascinating relationship between place and memory from the individual to the collective This is a multi and intra disciplinary collection of the latest most influential approaches to the interwoven and dynamic issues of place and memory It will be of great use to researchers and academics working across Geography Tourism Heritage Anthropology Memory Studies and Archaeology In the Memory House Howard Mansfield,1993-09-01 In the Memory House recalls what American society has forgotten the land its people and its ideals By examining what we choose to remember this important book reveals how progress has created absences in our landscapes and in our lives Catalogue of the Illinois State Library Illinois State Library,1894 Studies in History, Economics and Public Law ,1918
