Intensity Modulated Radiation Therapy for Head and Neck Cancer K. S. Clifford

Chao, Gokhan Ozyigit, 2003 The first clinical book on the hottest topic in radiation oncology this timely teaching text offers step by step guidance in use of IMRT for cancers at each subsite of the head and neck The book s high end content gives readers the clinical decision making expertise and technical proficiency to incorporate this state of the art radiation treatment technique into practice Unique to this text is the site specific instruction on target determination and delineation to ensure adequate treatment of the tumor target while sparing adjacent normal tissue More than 250 detailed full color and black and white illustrations clarify each step in clinical implementations of head and neck cancer treatment especially IMRT The book provides a concise pertinent overview of the natural course lymph node spread diagnostic criteria and therapeutic options for each head and neck cancer subsite Numerous tables provide extensive summaries of the IMRT literature Figures with succinct explanatory text demonstrate the patterns of direct tumor extension and nodal metastasis with which target volumes are determined and delineated Clinical outcomes for patients treated with IMRT and with conventional techniques are also included

Radiation Therapy of Head and Neck Cancer George E. Laramore, 2012-12-06 The contemporary management of patients with cancers of the head and neck is under careful scrutiny and major changes are being introduced in order to improve the potential not only for long term control but also for less in the way of disfiguring and distressing complications associated with the treatment programs In 1988 the American Cancer Society estimates that there will be 42400 new cases of malignant tumors of the head and neck diagnosed with 12 850 deaths In general the prognosis for patients with malignant tumors of the head and neck region depends upon the site of origin the local and regional extent of the tumor the Karnofsky status of the patient as well as the patient s general medical condition The potential for cure for early stage tumors is extremely high particularly for those lesions involving the vocal cord oral cavity and the anterior two thirds of the tongue Major advances have been made in the management of head and neck cancer by the innovative utilization of surgery with radiation therapy Small tumors can be cured by either surgery or radiation therapy with equally good results However far advanced tumors are more complicated and more difficult to cure requiring combined integrated multimodal programs of management Therefore the previously general poor prognosis for advanced tumors is becoming better with more aggressive treatment regimens

Radiotherapy and Clinical Radiobiology of Head and Neck Cancer Loredana G. Marcu, Iuliana Toma-Dasu, Alexandru Dasu, Claes Mercke, 2018-05-15 Common factors that lead to treatment failure in head and neck cancer are the lack of tumour oxygenation the accelerated division of cancer cells during treatment and radioresistance These tumour related challenges and possible ways to overcome them are covered in this book authored by three medical physicists and a clinical oncologist who explain how different radiobiological findings have led to the development of various treatment techniques for head and neck cancer Novel treatment techniques as supported by current scientific evidence are comprehensively explored as well as the major challenges that arise in the retreatment of patients who have already undergone a form of radiotherapy for primary head and neck cancer Features Uses an interdisciplinary approach encompassing clinical aspects of radiotherapy radiation biology and medical physics Applies content by relating all radiobiological characteristics to their respective clinical implications Explains the radiobiological rationale for all previous and current clinical trials for head and neck cancer

Cancers of the Head and Neck Charlotte Jacobs, 2012-12-06 Cancers of the head and neck are among the most morbid of cancers Convention al surgery and or radiation therapy have a high cure rate for patients with early stage disease However despite optimal treatment with surgery and radiotherapy patients with nodal spread or extensive local disease have a low cure rate Even if a cancer is cured a patient is often left with long term debilities from the treatment and or cancer The major causes for decreased survival in patients with advanced head and neck cancer include local recurrence distant metastases and second primaries All of these need to be addressed if one is to improve upon the curability of advanced disease There are several new techniques surgical and radiotherapeutic designed to improve local control Brachytherapy or interstitial implantation delivers a high dose of localized radiation with minimal normal tissue injury This technique as discussed by Goffinet may be even more efficacious when combined with hyperthermia New creative methods of radiation therapy delivery such as the use of multiple fractions per day as discussed by Parsons and Million are also contributing to long term local control Laser therapy discussed by Ossoff and Nemeroff provides another tool for treatment of local disease
