Andrews,Jan F. Groote,C.A.

Middelburg, 2012-12-06 SoSL was the first International Workshop on Semantics of Specification Languages held from 25-27 October 1993 in Utrecht the Netherlands. The workshop was organized by the Department of Philosophy of Utrecht University with financial support from the Nationale Faciliteit Informatica of the Nederlandse Organisatie voor Wetenschappelijk Onderzoek NWO and under the auspices of the British Computer Society's specialist group in Formal Aspects of Computing Science BCS FACS. The concern of the workshop was the semantics of specification languages and the issues closely related to this area such as type checking and the justification of proof rules and proof obligations. Its aim was the exchange of problems and ideas in this field of formal methods and the identification of common programs of work for further investigation. The program of SoSL consisted of 3 invited lectures presenting the developments of the semantics of 3 major specification languages. Furthermore, there were 16 presentations of submitted papers. This volume provides a direct account of the workshop. It contains 3 papers that match the invited lectures and the 16 selected papers. The editors want to thank all those who have contributed to the workshop: the Program Committee and the referees for selecting the contributed papers; the invited speakers for their interesting talks; the Organizing Committee for all their efforts; and of course the participants. We have the feeling that the workshop was worthwhile and should be repeated.

Industrial Applications of Formal Methods to Model, Design and Analyze Computer Systems Dan Craigen, Susan Gerhart, 2012-12-02

Formal methods are mathematically based techniques often supported by reasoning tools that can offer a rigorous and effective way to model design and analyze computer systems. The purpose of this study is to evaluate international industrial experience in using formal methods. The cases selected are representative of industrial grade projects and span a variety of application domains. The study had three main objectives: To better inform deliberations within industry and government on standards and regulations; To provide an authoritative record on the practical experience of formal methods to date; and To suggest areas where future research and technology development are needed. This study was undertaken by three experts in formal methods and software engineering: Dan Craigen of ORA Canada, Susan Gerhart of Applied Formal Methods, and Ted Ralston of Ralston Research Associates. Robin Bloomfield of Adelard was involved with the Darlington Nuclear Generating Station Shutdown System case. Support for this study was provided by organizations in Canada and the United States. The Atomic Energy Control Board of Canada (AECB) provided support for Dan Craigen and for the technical editing provided by Karen Summerskill. The U.S. Naval Research Laboratories (NRL), Washington DC, provided support for all three authors. The U.S. National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) provided support for Ted Ralston.
