Robin Wards Vancouver:

Robin Ward's Vancouver Robin Ward, 1990 The talented hand of Robin Ward captures the unique character of Vancouver's classic landmarks This handsome book contains 70 of Robin Ward's drawings which thousands of readers have come to know though his regular Vancouver Sun column Along with his distinctive illustrations the author's commentary provides an insightful look at some of the heritage and history of Vancouver's celebrated places      Exploring Vancouver Harold Kalman, Robin Ward, 2012-04-27 Vancouver's streetscapes and neighbourhoods have changed drastically in recent years New buildings representing current architectural trends are mixing with and often replacing those of earlier eras and tastes and a maturing architectural melange is emerging This book invites the reader to explore the city's continually evolving urban landscape in a highly readable yet authoritative guide to its architecture In this completely updated edition of Exploring Vancouver with brand new entries and accompanying photographs Harold Kalman and Robin Ward have divided the city including the North Shore Richmond Burnaby and New Westminster into fourteen areas selecting buildings and structures in these neighbourhoods that represent the best examples of the new and old architecture Each area is preceded by an informative introduction that provides historical context for the entries that follow There are over 400 entries each featuring a short description that combines architectural historical and social commentary The prose is lively as the authors consider the new and the old the modest and the grand the attractive and the not so attractive in a wide ranging work that encompasses everything from heritage to monster homes This book is designed as a walking tour guide with a map of each area showing the location of every entry      Robin Ward's Heritage West Coast Robin Ward, 1993-01 This second book by the Vancouver Sun columnist author of the successful Robin Ward's Vancouver offers 60 drawings of structures in Vancouver Victoria Seattle and points between The Sun Yat Sen Gardens and Cathedral Place in downtown Vancouver the Empress Hotel and Eaton Centre in Victoria historic structures in Britannia Beach and Port Townsend Ward brings to all of them his special eye for detail his insatiable curiosity about social history and his love for the unique character of each town and city His drawings are accompanied by spirited commentary on decisions we make about our heritage sites from the innovative and responsible to the downright scandalous      Making Vancouver Robert A.J. McDonald, 2011-11-01 Making Vancouver explores social relationships in Vancouver from 1863 to 1913 It considers how urbanization structured social boundaries among Burrard Inlet's increasingly large population and is premised on the belief that in studying social boundaries historians must abandon single category forms of analysis and build into their research strategies the capacity to explore complexity Robert McDonald thus traces the relationship between the two forms of identify class and status for the whole of Vancouver society The book starts with the years when settlement on Burrard Inlet centred around two lumber mills explores periods of elite dominance of city institutions and then of growing social and political conflict following the arrival of the railway examines the heightening of class tensions at the turn of the century charts economic growth during the boom years before the war and concludes with three chapters on the tripartite status hierarchy that emerged in concert with that of a class dichotomy. It reveals a western city that was neither egalitarian nor closed to opportunity. Vancouver up to the pre war crash of 1913 was open and dynamic. The rapidity of growth, easy access to resources, narrow industrial base and influence of ethnicity and race softened the thrust towards class division inherent in capitalism. Far more powerful in directing social relations was the quest for status creating a social structure that was no less hierarchical than that predicted by class theory but much more fluid. The social boundary that separated the working class from others is revealed as a division that for much of the pre war boom period divided Vancouver society more fundamentally than the boundary separating labour from capital.

Last One Out Turn Off the Lights Susan E. Cleyle, Louise M. McGillis, 2005. Libraries in the United States and Canada are facing similar challenges to their futures. Editors Susan Cleyle and Louise McGillis have pulled together an impressive list of contributors to look at the future of the profession and answer the question: is it time to turn off the lights and call it a day? Essays challenge the reader on five different topics: the Web library as place, pushing to the desktop, certification and the future of associations. Contributors were asked to think outside the box and take readers to places they may not have been before, thus providing both LIS students and practicing librarians with innovative ways to position themselves to serve a future society that is information hungry.

Neon Eulogy Keith McKellar, 2001. In Neon Eulogy, street artist Laughing Hand sketches a disappearing landscape of cafes, theatres and streets, documenting a neglected heritage of neon landmarks, most now lost. McKellar's detailed line drawings are accompanied by a wonderful anecdotal history of the rise and fall of each unique establishment.

Witness to Loss Jordan Stanger-Ross, Pamela Sugiman, 2017-10-18. When the federal government uprooted and interned Japanese Canadians en masse in 1942, Kishizo Kimura saw his life upended along with tens of thousands of others. But his story is also unique as a member of two controversial committees that oversaw the forced sale of the property of Japanese Canadians in Vancouver during the Second World War. Kimura participated in the dispossession of his own community. In Witness to Loss, Kimura's previously unknown memoir, written in the last years of his life, is translated from Japanese to English and published for the first time. This remarkable document chronicles a history of racism in British Columbia, describes the activities of the committees on which Kimura served and seeks to defend his actions. Diverse reflections of leading historians, sociologists and a community activist and educator who lived through this history give context to the memoir, inviting readers to grapple with a rich and contentious past. More complex than just hero or villain, oppressor or victim, Kimura raises important questions about the meaning of resistance and collaboration and the constraints faced by an entire generation. Illuminating the difficult, even impossible, circumstances that confronted the victims of racist state action in the mid twentieth century, Witness to Loss reminds us that the challenge of understanding is greater than that of judgment.

Dream City Lance Berelowitz, 2010-08-24. Located at the edge of a continent and at the corresponding edge of national public consciousness, Vancouver has developed in unique and unanticipated ways. It is now emerging as an experiment in contemporary city making with international interest in Vancouver as a model of post industrial urbanism increasing exponentially Lance Berelowitz explores the links between the city's seductive natural setting its turbulent political history and changing civic values and its planning and design culture He also makes the startling case that Vancouver is to Canada's imagination what Los Angeles is to the American a mythologized place of endless possibilities while being grounded in an altogether more limited set of socio economic and environmental limitations Dream City is richly illustrated with both historical and contemporary photographs of many significant buildings and public spaces as well as specially commissioned maps that reveal the underlying patterns of growth and change of Canada's youngest metropolis

Disciplining Bodies in the Gymnasium Sherry Mckay, Patricia Vertinsky, 2004-05-06 The prize winning War Memorial Gymnasium at the University of British Columbia is discussed here examining what the building's design construction and shifting functions reveal about the university's values during the post war years

Vanishing British Columbia Michael Kluckner, 2011-11-01 The old buildings and historic places of British Columbia form a kind of roadside memory a tangible link with stories of settlement change and abandonment that reflect the great themes of our history With small towns declining and old rural properties changing so little of the history of these places has been recorded in museums or archives and so much of it may disappear as families disperse and memories dim More than a decade ago Michael Kluckner began painting these dots on his personal map of the province in a watercolour sketchbook In 1999 after he put a few of the sketches on his website a network of correspondents emerged that eventually led him to the family letters photo albums and memories all from a disappearing era of the province Vanishing British Columbia is a record of these places and the stories they tell It combines engaging and insightful historical commentary with over 160 of the author's original paintings It has an exceptional assortment of historic imagery including old postcards architectural plans and photographs The study of roadside memory demonstrates the visceral connection that people especially those who are part of the rural to urban diaspora of modern times have for the sites of their family memories On a grander scale this approach leads to a broader understanding of more abstract historical themes and of the province's history and culture It also presents a compelling argument for stewardship of regional history in the face of urbanization and globalization
