Steve Neale,2012-11-12 The Classical Hollywood Reader brings together essential readings to provide a history of Hollywood from the 1910s to the mid 1960s Following on from a Prologue that discusses the aesthetic characteristics of Classical Hollywood films Part 1 covers the period between the 1910s and the mid to late 1920s It deals with the advent of feature length films in the US and the growing national and international dominance of the companies responsible for their production distribution and exhibition In doing so it also deals with film making practices aspects of style the changing roles played by women in an increasingly business oriented environment and the different audiences in the US for which Hollywood sought to cater Part 2 covers the period between the coming of sound in the mid 1920s and the beginnings of the demise of the studio system in late 1940s In doing so it deals with the impact of sound on films and film production in the US and Europe the subsequent impact of the Depression and World War II on the industry and its audiences the growth of unions and the roles played by production managers and film stars at the height of the studio era Part 3 deals with aspects of style censorship technology and film production It includes articles on the Production Code music and sound cinematography and the often neglected topic of animation Part 4 covers the period between 1946 and 1966 It deals with the demise of the studio system and the advent of independent production In an era of demographic and social change it looks at the growth of drive in theatres the impact of television the advent of new technologies the increasing importance of international markets the Hollywood blacklist the rise in art house imports and in overseas production and the eventual demise of the Production Code Designed especially for courses on Hollywood Cinema the Reader includes a number of newly researched and written chapters and a series of introductions to each of its parts It concludes with an epilogue a list of resources for further research and an extensive bibliography Classic American Popular Song David Jenness,Donald Velsey,2014-02-04 Classic American Popular Song The Second Half Century 1950 2000 addresses the question What happened to American popular song after 1950 There are numerous books available on the so called Golden Age of popular song but none that follow the development of popular song styles in the second half of the 20th century While 1950 is seen as the end of an era the tap of popular song creation hardly ran dry after that date. Many of the classic songwriters continued to work through the following decades. Porter was active until 1958, Rodgers until the later 1970s, Arlen until 1976. Some of the greatest lyricists of the classic era continued to do outstanding and successful work. Johnny Mercer and Dorothy Fields, for example, continued to produce lyrics through the early 70s. These works could be explained as simply the Golden Age's last stand, a refusal of major figures to give in to a new reality. But then how can we explain the outstanding careers of Frank Loesser, Cy Coleman, Jerry Herman, Jerry Bock, and Sheldon Harnick, Fred Kander and John Ebb, Jule Styne, Alan Jay Lerner, and Frederick Loewe, and several other major figures? Where did Stephen Sondheim come from? For anyone interested in the development of American popular song and its survival, this book will make fascinating reading.

Broadway, Classic Keys Alan S. Lenhoff, David E. Robertson, 2019-12-09. Classic Keys is a beautifully photographed and illustrated book focusing on the signature rock keyboard sounds of the 1950s to the early 1980s. It celebrates the Hammond B3 organ, Rhodes and Wurliitzer electric pianos, the Vox Continental and Farfisa combo organs, the Hohner Clavinet, the Mellotron, the Minimoog, and other famous and collectable instruments. From the earliest days of rock music, the role of keyboards has grown dramatically. Advancements in electronics created a crescendo of musical invention. In the thirty short years between 1950 and 1980, the rock keyboard went from being whatever down on its luck piano awaited a band in a bar or concert hall to a portable digital orchestra. It made keyboards a centerpiece of the sound of many top rock bands, and a handful of them became icons of both sound and design. Their sounds live on digitally in the memory chips of modern keyboards and in their original form thanks to a growing group of musicians and collectors of many ages and nationalities. Classic Keys explores the sound lore and technology of these iconic instruments, including their place in the historical development of keyboard instruments, music, and the international keyboard instrument industry. Twelve significant instruments are presented as the chapter foundations, together with information about and comparisons with more than thirty-six others. Included are short profiles of modern musicians, composers, and others who collect, use, and prize these instruments years after they went out of production. Both authors are avid musicians, collect, and restore vintage keyboards and are well known and respected in the international community of web forums devoted to these instruments.

Jazz Education Guide, 2004. American Classic Screen Profiles John C. Tibbetts, James M. Welsh, 2010-08-12. First appearing in 1976, American Classic Screen was the publishing arm of The National Film Society. Intended for scholars and general readers interested in films from the golden age of cinema and beyond, the magazine ran for a decade and included original interviews, profiles, and articles that delved deep into the rich history of Hollywood. Contributors to the magazine included noted academics in the area of film studies as well as independent scholars and authors eager to expand the world of cinema. Since the periodical's demise, however, many of the essays and articles have been difficult to find at best and in some cases entirely unavailable. In American Classic Screen Profiles, editors John C. Tibbetts and James M. Welsh have assembled some of the most significant and memorable profiles.

written for the magazine over its ten year history This collection contains rare insights into some of the brightest stars of yesteryear as well as gifted filmmakers directors and craftsmen alike including Fatty Arbuckle Baby Peggy Warner Baxter Ralph Bellamy Beulah Bondi George M Cohan Cecil B DeMille Boris Karloff Jayne Mansfield Marilyn Monroe Eleanor Powell Robert Redford Mickey Rooney William Wellman and Natalie Wood This compendium of profiles recaptures the spirit and scholarship of that time and will appeal to both scholars and fans who have an abiding interest in the American motion picture industry the film's characters adding to the realism of the mise en scène without contributing much to other dramatic meanings. This book defines, describes and illustrates another hitherto neglected type of film music: ambi-diegetic film music, which appears on screen but which contributes to the dramatic development of plot, character and other themes. Consistent with an interest in macromarketing, such ambi-diegetic film music serves as a kind of product placement suitable for commercialization via the cross-promotion of soundtrack albums, for example, and plays a role in product design. It also provides one type of symbolic consumer behavior that indicates choices made by film characters when playing, singing, listening or dancing in ways that reveal their personalities or convey other cinemusical meanings. Morris Holbrook argues that ambi-diegetic film music sheds light on various social issues, such as the age-old tension between art and entertainment, as it applies to the contrast between creative integrity and commercialization. Music, Movies, Meanings and Markets explores the ways in which ambi-diegetic jazz contributes to the development of dramatic meanings in various films, many of which address the art versus commerce theme as a central concern.

The Complete Book of 1930s Broadway Musicals Dan Dietz, 2018-03-29

Despite the stock market crash of October 1929, thousands of theatregoers still flocked to the Great White Way throughout the country's darkest years. In keeping with the Depression and the events leading up to World War II, 1930s Broadway was distinguished by numerous political revues and musicals, including three by George Gershwin: Strike Up the Band, Of Thee I Sing and Let Em Eat Cake. The decade also saw the last musicals by Gershwin, Jerome Kern and Vincent Youmans found Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart in full flower and introduced both Kurt Weill and Harold Arlen's music to Broadway. In The Complete Book of 1930s Broadway Musicals, Dan Dietz examines in detail every musical that opened on Broadway from 1930 through 1939. This book discusses the era's major successes, notorious failures and musicals that closed during their pre-Broadway tryouts. It includes such shows as Anything Goes, As Thousands Cheer, Babes in Arms, The Boys from Syracuse, The Cradle Will Rock, The Green Pastures, Hellzapoppin, Hot Mikado, Porgy and Bess, Roberta and various editions of Ziegfeld Follies. Each entry contains the following information: Plot summary; Cast members; Names of all important personnel, including writers, composers, directors, choreographers, producers and musical directors; Opening and closing dates; Number of performances; Critical commentary; Musical numbers and the performers who introduced the songs; Production data, including information about tryouts; Source material; Details about London and other foreign productions. Besides separate entries for each production, the book offers numerous appendixes, including a discography, filmography and list of published scripts, as well as lists of black-themed and Jewish-themed productions. This comprehensive book contains a wealth of information and provides a comprehensive view of each show. The Complete Book of 1930s Broadway Musicals will be of use to scholars, historians and casual fans of one of the greatest decades in musical theatre history.
