Memory, Identity, and Nationalism in European Regions Apryshchenko, Victor, Karnaukhova, Oxana, 2019-04-07. Memory studies is a well-established academic discipline, but the revised issue of ethnicity poses a new set of research questions, particularly in relation to the problem of the operational character of memory and ethnicity in the context of traumatized identity. Contemporary political processes in Europe, populism and nationalism, in addition to ethnic challenges in the form of demographic shifts, have created a situation in which new national identities have been developed simultaneously with emerging competitive historical memories. Memory, Identity, and Nationalism in European Regions is an essential scholarly resource that investigates the interactions between politics and managed historical memory and the discourse of ethnicity in European regions. Featuring topics such as anthropology, memory, politics, and national identity, this book is ideally designed for scholars, practitioners, specialists, and politicians.

Israeli and Palestinian Narratives of Conflict Robert I. Rotberg, 2006-09-07. Why does Hamas refuse to recognize the legitimacy of the state of Israel? Reflecting both Israeli and Palestinian points of view, this volume addresses the two powerful, bitterly contested, competing historical narratives that underpin the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

Memory and Myths of the Norman Conquest Siobhan Brownlie, 2013. In an innovative approach drawn from Memory Studies, this book seeks to uncover how the Norman Conquest is popularly remembered. The Norman Conquest is one of the most significant events in British history, but how is it actually remembered and perceived today? This book offers a study of contemporary British memory of the Norman Conquest, focussing on shared knowledge, attitudes, and beliefs. A major source of evidence for its findings are references to the Norman Conquest in contemporary British newspaper articles: 807 articles containing references to the Conquest were collected from ten British newspapers covering a recent three-year period. A second important source of information is a quantitative survey for which a representative sample of 2000 UK residents was questioned. These sources are supplemented by the study of contemporary books and film material, as well as medieval chronicles, for comparative purposes. The author also draws on cultural theory to highlight the characteristics and functions of distant memory and myth. The investigation culminates in considering the potential impact of memory of the Norman Conquest in Britain today. Siobhan Brownlie is a Lecturer in the School of Arts, Languages, and Cultures at the University of Manchester.
