Ross Orogen Of The Transantarctic Mountains:

The Ross Orogen of the Transantarctic Mountains Edmund Stump, 1995-03-31 The Ross Orogen of the Transantarctic Mountains is the part of the orogenic system that formed at the Pacific continental margin of present day Antarctica According to a recent hypothesis this continental margin was created by the rifting and subsequent drift of Laurentia from Gondwana With an unparalleled breadth and depth of information this book provides a detailed synthesis of the history of the Ross orogen In doing so it incorporates classical studies with discussions of the most recent and controversial research from the international community The book also includes a comprehensive bibliography and a historical chronology of all expeditions that have worked on the Ross orogen in the Transantarctic Mountains from the first sightings by Ross in 1840 right up to the present day This review of the Ross orogen of the Transantarctic Mountains will be valuable to all geologists interested in these episodes in the Earth's history and to researchers of the geology of Antarctica

Review of The Ross orogen of the Transantarctic Mountains by E. Stump. Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 1995
B.C. Storey, 1996 A Global Synthesis of the Ordovician System: Part 2 T. Servais, D.A.T. Harper, B. Lefebvre, I. G. Percival, 2023-06-08 The Ordovician was one of the longest of the geological periods characterized by major magmatic and tectonic activity an immense biodiversification swings in climate and sea levels and the first Phanerozoic mass extinction A Global Synthesis of the Ordovician System is presented in two volumes in The Geological Society Special Publications Whereas the first volume SP532 concentrates on general aspects and a synthesis of the Ordovician geology of Europe this volume SP533 includes reviews of Ordovician successions of most other parts of the world The classic successions of the Ordovician basins of North America are presented as well as those of China where several of the Ordovician Global Boundary Stratotype Sections and Points are defined The volume also includes syntheses of the Ordovician geology of Africa South America most regions of Asia from the Near to the Far East along with Central Asia as well as Australia New Zealand and Antarctica Terrane Processes at the Margins of Gondwana Alan Vaughan, Alan P. M. Vaughan, Philip T. Leat, Robert J. Pankhurst, 2005 The Australide orogen the southern hemisphere Neoproterozoic to Mesozoic terrane accretionary orogen that forms the palaeo Pacific margin of Gondwana is one of the largest and longest lived orogens on Earth This book brings together a series of reviews and multidisciplinary research papers that comprehensively cover the Australides from the Tasman orogen of eastern Australia to the Neoproterozoic and Palaeozoic orogens of South America taking in New Zealand and Antarctica along the way It deals with the evolution of the southern Gondwana margin as it grew during a series of terrane accretion episodes from the late Proterozoic through to final fragmentation in mid Cretaceous times Global perspectives are given by comparison with the Palaeozoic northern Gondwana margin and documentation of world wide terrane accretion episodes in the Late Triassic Early Jurassic and mid Cretaceous The Tasmanides of eastern Australia and the terrane histories of New Zealand and southern South America are given comprehensive up to date reviews The Transantarctic Mountains Gunter Faure, Teresa M. Mensing, 2010-09-21 This book presents a summary of the geology of the Transantarctic Mountains for Earth scientists who may want to work there or who need an overview of the geologic history of this region. In addition, the properties of the East Antarctic ice sheet and of the meteorites that accumulate on its surface are treated in separate chapters. The presentation ends with the Cenozoic glaciation of the Transantarctic Mountains, including the limnology and geochemical evolution of the saline lakes in the ice-free valleys. The subject matter in this book is presented in chronological order, starting about 750 million years ago and continuing to the present time. The chapters can be read selectively because the introduction to each chapter identifies the context that gives relevance to the subject matter to be discussed. The text is richly illustrated with 330 original line drawings as well as with 182 color maps and photographs. The book contains indexes of both subject matter and of authors' names that allow it to be used as an encyclopedia of the Transantarctic Mountains and of the East Antarctic ice sheet. Most of the chapters are supplemented by Appendices containing data tables, additional explanations of certain phenomena, e.g., the formation and seasonal destruction of stratospheric ozone, and illustrative calculations, e.g., ^{38}Cl dates of meteorites. The authors have spent a combined total of fourteen field seasons between 1964 and 1995 doing geological research in the Transantarctic Mountains with logistical support by the US Antarctic Program. Although Antarctica is remote and inaccessible, tens of thousands of scientists of many nationalities and their assistants have worked there, and even larger numbers of investigators will work there in the future.

Encyclopedia of the Antarctic Beau Riffenburgh, 2007 Publisher description Antarctic Environments and Resources J.D. Hansom, John Gordon, 2014-06-03 Antarctica is no longer a pole apart. From a scientific perspective, the Antarctic ice sheet, ocean, and climate systems are intimately linked with the global climate and are now seen to be of international significance for understanding climate change. From an economic perspective, the Antarctic is perceived to have great potential as a source of marine resources, although the extent of speculated mineral and hydrocarbon resources is unknown. From a conservation perspective, the continent of Antarctica represents the ideal image of unspoiled wilderness. Antarctic Environments and Resources is an accessible and timely new geography of the Antarctic which examines the differing and sometimes conflicting interests in the great southern continent, the Southern Ocean, and the subantarctic islands against a background of the physical and natural systems of the region and their interactions. It charts the development of human involvement in the area, focusing on the exploitation of resources from early sealing to modern fisheries, tourism, and science, and it assesses the consequent impacts on the natural environment. The text also reviews the emerging framework for future environmental management developed under the Antarctic Treaty System. This is an ideal text for undergraduates studying glacial geomorphology, environmental management, polar regions, and the Antarctic. Antarctic Marine Geology J. B. Anderson, 1999-09-28 A comprehensive single-authored book to introduce students and researchers to the marine geology of the Antarctic. Antarctica and Supercontinent Evolution S.L. Harley, I.C.W. preserves a rock record that spans three and a half billion years of history and has a remarkable story to tell about the evolution of our Earth from the hottest crustal rocks yet found in an orogenic system to the assembly and breakup of Gondwana in the Phanerozoic This volume highlights our improved understanding of the tectonic events that have shaped Antarctica and how these potentially relate to supercontinent assembly and fragmentation The internal constitution of the East Antarctic Shield is assessed using information available from the basement geology and from detritus preserved as Mesozoic sediments in the Trans Antarctic Mountains Accretionary orogenesis along the proto Pacific margin of Antarctica is examined and the volumes of intracrustal melting compared with juvenile magma additions in these complex orogenic systems assessed This special volume demonstrates the diversity of approaches required to elucidate and understand crustal evolution and evaluate the supercontinent concept

Antarctic Earth Science R. L. Oliver,P. R. James,J. B. Jago,1983 The fourth international symposium on Antarctic Earth Sciences took place in Adelaide South Australia during the week 16 20 August 1982 This volume contains a record of the centenary activities celebrating Sir Douglas Mawson and the one hundred and seventy four papers that were presented by delegates for discussion over the five days Sir Douglas Mawson was part of the first team to reach the magnetic South Pole a leading geologist and scientific figure during the heroic age of of antarctic exploration The papers presented during the symposium were divided into fifteen categories covering east and west Antarctica marine land and glacial geology plate tectonics islands peninsulas climatic change and Precambrian and Cenozoic era activity The two hundred persons from sixteen countries who attended the symposium brought together a wide range of the most current expertise and research to share of which this volume provides a record
