Shooting Blanks at the Anzac Legend Dr Donna Coates, 2023-11-01 War is traditionally considered a male experience By extension the genre of war literature is a male dominated field and the tale of the battlefield remains the privileged and only canonised war story In Australia although women have written extensively about their wartime experiences their voices have been distinctively silenced Shooting Blanks at the Anzac Legend calls for a re definition of war literature to include the numerous voices of women writers and further recommends a re reading of Australian national literatures with women's war writing foregrounded to break the hold of a male dominated literary tradition and pass on a vital but unexplored women's tradition Shooting Blanks at the Anzac Legend examines the rich body of World Wars I and II and Vietnam War literature by Australian women providing the critical attention and treatment that they deserve Donna Coates records the reaction of Australian women writers to these conflicts illuminating the complex role of gender in the interpretation of war and in the cultural history of twentieth century Australia By visiting an astonishing number of unfamiliar non canonical texts Shooting Blanks at the Anzac Legend profoundly alters our understanding of how Australian women writers have interpreted war especially in a nation where the experience of colonising a frontier has spawned enduring myths of identity and statehood

Is Birdsong Music? Hollis Taylor, 2017-05-01 A ground breaking study of the songs of the pied butcherbird intellectually engaging and also very entertaining as a fieldwork memoir The Music Trust How and when does music become possible Is it a matter of biology or culture or an interaction between the two Revolutionizing the way we think about the core values of music and human exceptionalism Hollis Taylor takes us on an outback road trip to meet the Australian pied butcherbird Recognized for their distinct timbre calls and songs both sexes of this songbird sing in duos trios and even larger choirs transforming their flute like songs annually While birdsong has long inspired artists writers musicians and philosophers and enthralled listeners from all walks of life researchers from the sciences have dominated its study As a field musicologist Taylor spends months each year in the Australian outback recording the songs of the pied butcherbird and chronicling their musical activities She argues persuasively in these pages that their inventiveness in song surpasses biological necessity compelling us to question the foundations of music and confront the remarkably entangled relationship between human and animal worlds Equal parts nature essay memoir and scholarship Is Birdsong Music offers vivid portraits of the extreme locations where these avian choristers are found quirky stories from the field and an in depth exploration of the vocalizations of the pied butcherbird Hollis Taylor has given us one of the most serious books ever written on animal music Is Birdsong Music is so engaging that all who care about humanity's place on Earth should read it We are certainly not the only musicians on this planet David Rothenberg author of Why Birds Sing

The Ghost at the Wedding Shirley Walker, 2011-05-24 In 1914 in the canefields of northern New South Wales the young men couldn't wait to set off for the adventure of war The women coped as best as they could raised the children lived in fear of being the next to receive an official telegram They grieved their dead and came to learn that for returned men there are worse things than death in combat They bore more children to replace those lost in the First World War and the sons were just the right age to go off to the second The Ghost at the Wedding is like no other account of war chronicling events from both sides the horror of the battlefields and the women who were left at home Shirley Walker's depictions of those battles Gallipoli the Western Front the Kokoda Track are grittily accurate their reverberations haunting Written with the emotional power of a novel here is a true story whose sorrow is redeemed by astonishing beauty and strength of spirit
