Fragmentation and the European Patent System Karen Walsh, 2022-08-11 This book provides an in depth study on current perceptions of and responses to fragmentation in the European patent system EPS For decades attempts have been made to address this fragmentation by introducing a unitary patent system The most recent attempt the EU unitary patent system will be the first of its kind It is expected to significantly change the EPS However rather than reducing existing fragmentation it will likely add to it Based on an analysis of the current and forthcoming system the book argues that the inherent nature of fragmentation within the EPS needs to be recognised and suggests that a multifaceted approach is required to respond to it Uniquely it draws on work regarding fragmentation outside of the patent and intellectual property regimes gaining insights from both European law making and the international legal system These insights are used to investigate current responses to fragmentation in the EPS Interpretations of substantive patent law are examined including claim construction Actavis v Eli Lilly exceptions to patentability related to uses of human embryos for industrial or commercial purposes WARF Br stle ISCC and products resulting from essentially biological processes Broccoli and Tomatoes II G3 19 Attempts towards convergence in these areas have had mixed results and in some instances fragmentation may be necessary However similar techniques to those applied in the international legal system to respond to fragmentation are being used in the EPS and where this is seen it has been to good effect It is argued that these methods should be recognised structured and promoted to make our response to fragmentation more effective Fragmentation and the European Patent System will be of interest to academics students and practitioners looking for a new perspective on the EPS

Natura 2000 - A Coherent Nature Conservation Network? Bettina Kleining,2024-05-26 This book offers a fresh perspective on the Habitats Directive s rules on designating Natura 2000 the European biodiversity conservation network Although the Habitats Directive came into force in the early 1990s the network is not yet optimally set up and lacks coherence and connectivity The author examines the Habitats Directive s provisions regarding the designation of Natura 2000 and discusses possible reasons for the EU Member States ongoing lack of compliance with their designation duties She reassesses the 2015 REFIT Fitness Check of the Nature Directives to look for the Member States reasons for not having optimally complied with their designation duties yet She then analyses the Habitats Directive to reveal elements of non optimal drafting in its designation provisions Sensible law reforms that do not interfere with the general framework of the Habitats Directive and which keep in mind the relevant national regional and international biodiversity law and policy as well as the relevant case law will be discussed to this end As a result this book presents an enhanced legal designation framework that can support Member States compliance with their designation obligations The book finally goes beyond the European biodiversity legislation also shedding light on the effects of the suggested reforms for the broader biodiversity and environmental law and policy landscape and concludes that reforming the Habitats Directive would benefit a variety of contemporary areas of law This book targets academics and policy makers in the field as it provides a scholarly as well as a
