New Developments In Economics And Business Education A Handbook For Teachers:

An International Perspective on Economic Education William B. Walstad, 2012-12-06 Economics is taught in some form in the secondary schools of nations throughout the world. The subject is rarely taught in elementary schools and while economics courses are offered in universities the majority of students end their formal education with secondary school. Thus the best opportunity for the economic education of the youth of a nation occurs in secondary schools. This book examines economic education at this critical level of the educational system. The teaching of economics in secondary schools varies across countries. These differences occur because of history, the structure of education and other national factors. At the same time there are common elements in the economic education of many countries especially in content coverage. This contrast between the common features and the uniqueness of economic education in secondary schools of major industrial nations exemplifies the international perspective presented in this book. The international perspective is developed in the six sections of the volume. The first section discusses why nations should include economics in school curricula and presents a framework for teaching economics that should have global appeal. Dissension and consensus on economic issues among North American and European economists are examined in the second section. The third section surveys the U.S. research literature on precollege economic education and assesses the current state of economics instruction in U.S. schools. The economics curricula and educational practices in seven other nations: the U.K., Canada, Japan, Germany, Austria, Korea, and Australia are described in the fourth and fifth sections. The fifth section also presents international comparisons of economic understanding based on national testing in six of those nations. The sixth and final section explores the role of economic education in centrally planned economies and its effects on the transition to a market economy using Russia, Bulgaria, and China as case studies.

Register of Educational Research in the United Kingdom, 1992-1995 National Foundation For Educational Research, 1995. This latest volume of the Register of Educational Research in the United Kingdom lists all the major research projects being undertaken in Britain during the latter months of 1992, the whole of 1993 and 1994, and the early months of 1995. Each entry provides names and addresses of the researchers, a detailed abstract, the source and amount of the grant where applicable, the length of the project and details of published material about the research. Whitaker's Book List
