New Directions For Student Services No 112 Winter 2005:

Technology in Student Affairs: Supporting Student Learning and Services Kevin Kruger, 2005 The literature and research on the use of technology in student affairs is still very limited This volume of New Direction for Student Services was written to increase our understanding of the role of technology in the student learning experience of campus based and as well as distance learners Information technology has become a central tool in creating 24 7 self service experiences for students interacting with campus administrative functions Recent technologies also create the real possibility of moving beyond administrative functions to playing a central role in student learning community development and student development This volume monograph attempts to capture the current thinking around the use of technology in student affairs It is not a review of the actual technologies in use in student affairs The pace of change is so fast that such a treatment would make the writing out of date within two years In that light this volume focuses less on the technology and more on the ways in which the technology is altering the organization of student affairs the ways in which the lines between campus based students and distance learners are blurring and the increasing role technology is playing in student learning

At Home with the Holocaust Lucas F. W. Wilson,2025-03-11 At Home with the Holocaust examines the relationship between intergenerational trauma and domestic space focusing on how Holocaust survivors homes became extensions of their traumatized psyches that their children inhabited Analyzing second and third generation Holocaust literature such as Art Spiegelman s Maus Jonathan Safran Foer s Everything Is Illuminated Sonia Pilcer s The Holocaust Kid and Elizabeth Rosner s

The Speed of Light as well as oral histories of children of survivors Lucas F W Wilson s study reveals how the material conditions of survivor family homes along with household practices and belongings rendered these homes as spaces of traumatic transference As survivors traumas became imbued in the very space of the domestic their homes functioned as material archives of their Holocaust pasts creating environments that not uncommonly second handedly wounded their children As survivor family homes were imaginatively transformed by survivors children into the sites of their parents traumas like concentration camps and ghettos their homes catalyzed the transmission of these traumas The Anarchy of Black Religion J. Kameron Carter,2023-07-03 In The Anarchy of Black Religion J Kameron Carter examines the deeper philosophical theological and religious history that animates our times to advance a new approach to understanding religion Drawing on the black radical tradition and black feminism Carter explores the modern invention of religion as central to settler colonial racial technologies wherein antiblackness is a founding and guiding religious principle of the modern world He therefore sets black religion apart from modern religion even as it tries to include and enclose it Carter calls this approach the black study of religion Black religion emerges not as doctrinal confessional or denominational but as a set of poetic and artistic strategies for improvisatory living and gathering Potentiating non exclusionary belonging black religion is anarchic mystical and experimental it reveals alternative relationalities and visions of matter that can counter capitalism s extractive individualistic and imperialist ideology By enacting a black study of religion Carter elucidates the violence of religion as the violence of modern life while also opening an alternate praxis of the sacred Child Welfare for the Twenty-first Century Gerald P. Mallon,Peg McCartt Hess,2014-09-09 The Adoption and Safe Families Act ASFA which became law in 1997 elicited a major shift in federal policy and thinking toward child welfare emphasizing children s safety permanency and well being over preserving biological ties at all costs The first edition of this volume mapped the field of child welfare after ASFA s passage detailing the practices policies programs and research affected by the legislation s new attitude toward care This second edition highlights the continuously changing child welfare climate in the U S including content on the Fostering Connections Act of 2008 The authors have updated the text throughout drawing from real world case examples and data obtained from the national Child and Family Services Reviews and emerging empirically based practices They have also added chapters addressing child welfare workforce issues supervision and research and evaluation The volume is divided into four sections child and adolescent well being child and adolescent safety permanency for children and adolescents and systemic issues within services policies and programs Recognized scholars practitioners and policy makers discuss meaningful engagement with families particularly Latino families health care for children and youth including mental health care effective practices with LGBT youth and their families placement stability foster parent recruitment and retention and the challenges of working with immigrant children youth and families
