Szabo, 2009-11-02 While it can be traced to the 1700s the term thanatology has gained traction in recent decades to refer to the study of death Because of the breadth of the published material and the challenges of discovery in large bibliographic databases and catalogs finding and identifying monographic material on death dying grief and bereavement can be extremely challenging Although there have been several bibliographical resources published on thanatology those titles were incomplete limited in scope or leaned heavily toward one area of the field In Death and Dying An Annotated Bibliography of the Thanatological Literature John F Szabo provides more than 2 200 citations of monographs on the science and study of death and dying Among the areas this volume addresses are the psychological philosophical and attitudinal aspects coping and dealing with the burdens of caregiving and working in the helping professions instructional and educational topics for practitioners primarily health care providers cultural differences in bereavement rituals and grief mourning and loss In addition notable titles on or relating to death and dying in popular culture death themes in literature methods of death or specific ethical policy or public issues are also included when they contribute important information to subject areas on which the book focuses This book will be helpful to students researchers academics caregivers health care professionals psychologists social workers and anyone with an interest in death dying bereavement or the care of the terminally ill

Death Education in the Writing Classroom Jeffrey

Berman, 2017-03-02 Death is often encountered in English courses Hamlet's death celebrity death death from the terrorist attacks on 9/11 but students rarely have the opportunity to write about their own experiences with death In Death Education in the Writing Classroom Jeffrey Berman shows how college students can write safely about dying death and bereavement The book is based on an undergraduate course on love and loss that Berman taught at the University at Albany in 2008 Part 1 Diaries is organized around Berman's diary entries written immediately after each class These entries provide a week by week glimpse of class discussions highlighting his students' writings and their developing bonds with classmates and teacher Part 2 Breakthroughs focuses on several students' important educational and psychological discoveries in their understanding of love and loss The student writings touch on many aspects of death education including disenfranchised grief The book explores how students write about not only mourning and loss but also depression cutting and abortion topics that occupy the ambiguous border of death in life Death Education in the Writing Classroom is the first book to demonstrate how love and loss can be taught in a college writing class and the first to describe the week by week changes in students' cognitive and affective responses to death This interdisciplinary book will be of interest to writing teachers students clinicians and bereavement counselors

Grief Is a Journey Kenneth J. Doka, 2017-04-18 Doka explores a new compassionate way to grieve as he explains that grief is not an illness to get over but an individual and ongoing journey He upends the dominant but incorrect view that grief proceeds by stages and helps us realize that our experiences following a death are far more individual and much less predictable than the conventional five stages model would have us believe Doka also explains how to cope with disenfranchised grief not so readily recognized or supported by society such as the death of ex-spouses the end of a friendship job loss or infertility

Living, Dying, Death, and Bereavement (Volume One) David E. Balk, 2020-10-21 This two volume book offers extensive interviews with persons who have made significant contributions to thanatology the study of dying death loss and grief The book's in depth conversations provide compelling life stories of interest to clinicians researchers and educated lay persons and to specialists interested in oral history as a means of gaining rich understandings of persons' lives Several disciplines that contribute to thanatology are represented in this book such as psychology religious studies art literature history social work nursing theology education psychiatry sociology philosophy and anthropology The book is unique no other text offers such a comprehensive insightful and personal review of work in the thanatology field The salience of thanatology is obvious when we consider several topics including the aging demographics of most countries the leading causes of death the devastation of COVID-19 the realities of how most persons die the growth both of hospice and of efforts within medicine to ensure that a good death becomes the norm of medical practice and increases in the number of countries and states permitting physician assisted suicide Volume One includes conversations with 21 thanatologists and an introductory chapter in which the author provides an overview of the project and offers reflections on what these thanatologists have told him The experts interviewed here include Robert Fulton Sandra Bertman Bill Worden Charles Corr
