Helping Students with Learning Difficulties David W. Chan, 1998. How can we usefully understand the developments of special education in Hong Kong? What lessons can we learn from the developments and provisions of special education services in other societies such as the United Kingdom, Taiwan and mainland China? What forms of educational or instructional practice can we envision as capable of offering new possibilities for helping Hong Kong students with learning difficulties? This book addresses all these and a host of other questions. In his extensive treatment of the topic David W. Chan covers the role of special education in Hong Kong today and contrasts it with special education systems in the United Kingdom and mainland China.
