Patterns Of Humanity In Poetical Script:

Patterns of Humanity in Poetical Script Alex V. Christoff, 2003 Forming the cornerstone of the 115 poems written with the rigor of rhyme is the poet's uncommon insight into the human psyche, society's mores and politics. The author's wide-ranging worldly experiences enrich the reader with the poems Ode to the East Palu and the Mustang and his Master. His intellectual vigor rewards the reader's capacity to tussle with the sonnets Ex Natura Rei and Power Disguised. The poet's sensitivity blossoms in poems of nature's radiance, animals, angelic spirits, and the soul. Each poem promises to reach a special place within the plethora of human emotion. Christoff posits that virtue's greatest lie is the belief that humanity has reached the pinnacle of technology and simultaneously has acquired the blessings of supernal love. Instead, we find ourselves beset with the phantom of terrorism that seeks to obliterate our lives and liberties. Christoff hopes that poetry will bridge the gap between the reality of everyday living and the essence of the spirit. Poetic Transformations Claudine Ang, 2020-10-26 In the eighteenth century, multiple migratory groups with competing political ambitions converged on the Mekong plains. In the frontier region, literati officials of a territorially expanding Vietnamese state crossed paths with a network of diasporic Chinese Ming loyalists closely affiliated with the coastal trading network. Drawing on vernacular Vietnamese and classical Chinese sources, Claudine Ang identifies the different ways two leading statesmen of the time employed literature to transform the frontier region. In their rival cultural projects, we see the clash between the aspirations of Vietnamese and Chinese migrants. Ang shows how a bawdy play in which a lascivious monk turns his charms on an unsuspecting nun acted as a vehicle for differentiating Vietnamese lowlanders from their neighbors, and she uncovers in a suite of landscape poems coded messages aimed at founding a new Ming loyalist stronghold on the Mekong delta. Through its close reading of satirical drama and landscape poetry, Poetic Transformations captures a historical moment of overlapping visions, frustrated schemes, and contested desires on the Mekong plains. The Poetics of the Everyday Siobhan Phillips, 2010 Wallace Stevens once described the malady of the quotidian, lamenting the dull weight of everyday regimen. Yet he would later hail that which is always beginning over and over, recognizing if not celebrating the possibility of fresh invention. Focusing on the poems of Wallace Stevens, Robert Frost, Elizabeth Bishop, and James Merrill, Siobhan Phillips positions everyday time as a vital category in modernist aesthetics, American literature, and poetic theory. She eloquently reveals how, through particular but related means, each of these poets converts the necessity of quotidian experience into an aesthetic and experiential opportunity. In Stevens, Phillips analyzes the implications of cyclic dualism. In Frost, she explains the theoretical depth of a habitual middle way. In Bishop's work, she identifies the attempt to turn recurrent mornings into a ceremony rather than a sentence, and in Merrill, she shows how cosmic theories rely on daily habits. Phillips ultimately demonstrates that a poetics of everyday time contributes not only to a richer understanding of these four writers but also to descriptions of their era, estimations of their genre, and ongoing reconfigurations of the issues that literature reflects and illuminates. concept perpetually undergoing revision and is necessarily subject to scrutiny The contributors here are thus concerned with investigating the following questions What does it mean to be human or to have a self What is the current place or status of the human in the contemporary world As technology is increasingly used to modify our bodies and minds to what extent should we alter and how can we improve our very understanding of human nature The authors contend that literature is the art form best placed to answer these questions In its dynamism and discursiveness literature has the capacity to both reflect dominant discourses and ideologies as well as to generate and even anticipate social change to critique and refine conventional ideas and existing cultural modes and to envision new possibilities for the future The human and its literary representation in other words are inherently intertwined

Patterns of Creativity Kevin Brophy, 2009-01-01 Patterns of Creativity reflects on the implications of recent neuro science findings evolutionary theory and linguistics for ideas about creativity and the practice of creativity Kevin Brophy approaches questions of art and creation from the inside that is as a poet himself The conclusions about what it might mean to be a creative writer are counter intuitive What might it mean to understand the production of art as an evolutionary process with no endpoint and no goal If consciousness is a minor player in decision making and problem solving as recent neuro science findings suggest how best might an artist manage conscious intentions while seeking to make original art Brophy argues that consciousness must be managed in new ways if creativity is to be sourced that much of what we learn in education is learned without consciousness being involved that a writer must read with a particular agenda that writing is itself a particular kind of communication beyond speech requiring specific skills He argues that the metaphor is not merely a poetic device but is central to the way human thought proceeds and the way communication happens It is the strange and surprising view from within informed by those views science offers to art that preoccupy these investigations

3 Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, 2012-12-06 Language-Paradox-Poetics James J.Y. Liu, 2014-07-14 In attempting to define a poetics of paradox from a traditional Chinese standpoint James Liu explores through a comparative approach linguistic textual and interpretive problems of relevance to Western literary criticism Liu's study evolves from a paradoxical view originating from early Confucian and Daoist philosophical texts that the less is said in poetry the more is meant Such a view implied the existence of paradox in the very use of language and led traditional Chinese hermeneutics to a study of metaparadox the use of language to explicate texts the meaning of which transcends language itself As Liu illustrates elements of traditional Chinese hermeneutics with examples of poetic and critical works he makes comparisons with the works of such Western literary figures as Shakespeare Mallarmé Pound Ionesco Derrida and Shepard The comparisons bring to light a crucial difference in conceptualization of language Chinese critics especially those influenced by Daoism and Buddhism seem to have held a deitic view of language language points to things whereas Western critics seem to have thought of language as primarily mimetic language represents things Liu examines the consequences of these views showing how both offer insights into the meaning of text and to what extent both have led to a metaparadox of interpretation Originally published in 1988 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Poetics of the Elements in the Human Condition Anna-Teresa Tymieniecka, 1985 Contemporary Visual Poetry Fiona Becket, 2025-09-15 This book examines contemporary visual poetry and how conceptual writing poem objects and computational texts shape a posthumanist understanding that is situated First the eye is theorised with respect to ethical understanding When visual poets reclaim vision visual poetics becomes a feminist praxis In Paula Claire and Maggie O Sullivan visual poetry becomes an ecological practice concerned with connectivity in the entanglements of natureculture In O Sullivan Campanello Bergvall and Philip spatial and temporal sense de formation sustains radical forms of voicing and eyewitness Finally works by Mez Breeze and Stephanie Strickland expand our understanding of visual poetry in digital electronic virtual reality and artificial intelligence contexts in which technology and affect are intimately connected These visual texts open up Braidotti's question with respect to how we are to visualize the subject as a transversal entity encompassing the human our genetic neighbours the animals and the earth as a whole and to do so within an understandable language Cognitive Poetics Peter Stockwell, 2019-12-06 A pioneering text in its first edition this revised publication of Cognitive Poetics offers a rigorous and principled approach to literary reading and analysis The second edition of this seminal text features updated theory frameworks and examples throughout including new explanations of literary meaning the power of reading literary force and emotion extended examples of literary texts from Old

«Remov'd from human eyes»: Madness and Poetry 1676-1774 Natali, Ilaria, 2016-08-30 The years 1676 and 1774 marked two turning points in the social and legal treatment of madness in England In 1676 London's Bethlehem Hospital expanded in grand new premises and in 1774 the Madhouses Act attempted to limit confinement of the insane This study explores almost a century of the English history of madness through the texts of five poets who were considered mentally troubled according to contemporary standards James Carlesse Anne Finch William Collins Christopher Smart and William Cowper were hospitalized sequestered or exiled from society Their works cope with representations of insanity medical definitions or practices imputed illness and the judging eye of the sane other shedding new light on the discontinuities in the notion of madness of this period

The Modernist Screenplay Alexandra Ksenofontova, 2020-10-02 The Modernist Screenplay explores the film screenplay as a genre of modernist literature It connects the history of screenwriting for silent film to the history of literary modernism in France Germany and Russia At the same time the book considers how the screenplay responded to the modernist crisis of reason confronted mimetic representation and sought to overcome the modernist mistrust of language with the help of rhythm From the silent film projects of Bertolt Brecht to the screenwriting of Sergei Eisenstein and the poetic scripts of the surrealists The Modernist Screenplay offers a new angle on the relationship between film and literature Based on the example of modernist screenwriting the book proposes a pluralistic approach to screenplays an approach that sees film scripts both as texts embedded in film production and as literary works in their own right As a result the sheer variety of different and experimental ways to tell stories in screenplays comes to light The Modernist Screenplay explores how the earliest kind of experimental screenplays the modernist screenplays challenged normative ideas about the nature of filmmaking the nature of literary writing and the borders between the two Humanities ,1988 The Development of Language and Language Researchers Frank S. Kessel,2013-12-16 First published in 1988 This is a collection of essays that were presented at or generated afterwards at a meeting on language acquisition Society Development in April 1981 a symposium on The Development of Language and Language Researchers Whatever Happened to Linguistic Theory in Boston
