The Foreign Film Renaissance on American Screens, 1946-1973 Tino Balio,2010-11-05 Largely shut out of American theaters since the 1920s foreign films such as Open City Bicycle Thief Rashomon The Seventh Seal Breathless La Dolce Vita and L'Avventura played after World War II in a growing number of art houses around the country and created a small but influential art film market devoted to the acquisition distribution and exhibition of foreign language and English language films produced abroad Nurtured by successive waves of imports from Italy Great Britain France Sweden Japan and the Soviet Bloc the renaissance was kick started by independent distributors working out of New York by the 1960s however the market had been subsumed by Hollywood From Roberto Rossellini's Open City in 1946 to Bernardo Bertolucci's Last Tango in Paris in 1973 Tino Balio tracks the critical reception in the press of such filmmakers as François Truffaut Jean Luc Godard Federico Fellini Michelangelo Antonioni Tony Richardson Ingmar Bergman Akira Kurosawa Luis Buñuel Satyajit Ray and Milos Forman Their releases paled in comparison to Hollywood fare at the box office but their impact on American film culture was enormous The reception accorded to art house cinema attacked motion picture censorship promoted the director as auteur and celebrated film as an international art Championing the cause was the new cinephile generation which was mostly made up of college students under thirty The fashion for foreign films depended in part on their frankness about sex When Hollywood abolished the Production Code in the late 1960s American made films began to treat adult themes with maturity and candor In this new environment foreign films lost their cachet and the art film market went into decline

Second Time Around D. A. Miller, 2021-01-26 The art houses and cinema clubs of his youth are gone but the films that D A Miller discovered there in the 1960s and 70s are now at his fingertips With DVDs and streaming media technology has turned the old cinematheque s theatrical offerings into private viewings that anyone can repeat pause slow and otherwise manipulate at will In Second Time Around Miller seizes this opportunity across thirteen essays he watches digitally restored films by directors from Mizoguchi to Pasolini and from Hitchcock to Honda looking to find not only what he first saw in them but also what he was then kept from seeing by quick camerawork normal projection speed missing frames or simple censorship At last he has an unobstructed view of the gay leather scene in Cruising the expurgated special effects in The H Man and the alternative ending to Vertigo Now he can pursue the finer details of Chabrol s debt to Hitchcock Visconti s mystificatory Marxism or the unemotive emotion in Godard Yet this recaptured past is strangely disturbing the films and the author have changed in too many ways for their reunion to be like old times The closeness of Miller s attention clarifies the painful contradictions of youth and decline damaged prints and flawless restorations

Morris, 2006-10-30 This volume brings together specialists from a variety of disciplines to develop a deeper understanding of the social political and cultural history of women in Italy in the years 1946 1960 Despite being a time when women and the family were at the center of national debates and when society changed considerably the fifteen years following the Second World War have tended to be overlooked or subsumed into discussions of other periods By focusing on the experience of women and by broadening the frame of reference to include subjects and sources often ignored or only alluded to by traditional analyses the essays in this volume break new ground and provide a corrective to previous interpretive models

and theoretical possibilities of fabric in the films of Luchino Visconti In Luchino Visconti and the Fabric of Cinema Joe McElhaney situates Visconti's films as privileged and deeply expressive instances of a trope that McElhaney identifies as the cinema of fabric a reoccurrence in film in which textiles clothing curtains tablecloths bedsheets determine the filming process An Italian neorealist Visconti emerges out of a movement immediately following WWII wherein fabric assumes crucial functions yet Visconti's use of fabric surpasses his colleagues in many ways including its fluid multifaceted articulations of space and time Visconti's homosexuality is central to this theory in that it assumes metaphoric potential in addressing forbidden sexual desires that are made visible in the films Visconti's cinema of fabric gives voice to desires not simply for human bodies draped in fabric but also for entire environments a world of the senses in which fabric becomes a crucial method for giving form to such desires McElhaney examines Visconti's neorealist origins in Ossessione La terra trema and Rocco and His Brothers particularly through fabric's function within literary realism and naturalism Neorealist revisionism through the extravagant drapings of the diva film is examined in Bellissima and Senso whereas White Nights and The Stranger are examined for the theatricalizing through fabric of their literary sources Visconti's interest in German culture vis-à-vis The Damned Death in Venice and Ludwig is articulated through a complex intertwining of fabric aesthetics politics and transgressive sexual desire Finally Visconti's final two films Conversation Piece and The Innocent assess through fabric both the origins of Italian fascism and the political tensions contemporaneous with the films' productions Fabric in Visconti is often tied to the aesthetic impulse itself in a world of visionaries attempting to dominate their surrounding environments and where a single piece of fabric may come to represent the raw material for creation This book will tantalize any reader with a keen eye and strong interest in film and queer studies

Luchino Visconti Geoffrey Nowell-Smith, 2019-07-25 Aristocrat and Marxist master equally of harsh realism and sublime melodrama Luchino Visconti 1906-1976 was without question one of the greatest European film directors His career as a film maker began in the 1930s when he escaped the stifling culture of Fascist Italy to work with Jean Renoir in the France of the Popular Front Back in his native country in the 40s he was one of the founders of the neo-realist movement In 1954 with Senso he turned his hand to a historical spectacular The result was both glorious to look at and a profound reinterpretation of history In Rocco and His Brothers 1960 he returned to his neo-realist roots and in The Leopard 1963 with Burt Lancaster Claudia Cardinale and Alain Delon he made the first truly international film He scored a further success with Death in Venice 1971 a sensitive adaptation of Thomas Mann's story about a writer in the film a musician whose world is devastated when he falls in love with a young boy A similar homo-erotic theme haunts Ludwig 1973 a bio-pic about the King of Bavaria who prefers art to politics and the company of stableboys to the princess he is supposed to marry Geoffrey Nowell-Smith's classic study of the director was first published in 1967 and revised in 1973 It is now updated to include the last three films that Visconti made before his death together with some reflections on the auteur theory of which the original edition was a key example

The Leopard (Il Gattopardo) David Weir,2024-04-04 Luchino Visconti s The Leopard Il Gattopardo 1963 tells the story of an aristocratic Sicilian family adjusting to the realities of political and commercial modernity after the unification Italy during the Risorgimento The film starring Claudia Cardinale Burt Lancaster and Alain Delon met with success upon its initial release winning the Palme d Or at Cannes and having a successful theatrical run in Europe Despite this however it did not do well with English speaking audiences and eventually even fell out of favour with Italian audiences who took issue with the way Risorgimento history was represented David Weir s study of the film seeks to understand the film s paradoxical place in Italian film history He argues that Visconti s use of artifice narrative and history all aspects that came to be criticised were in fact essential to his cinematic art and can all be understood as strengths of the film Providing a scene by scene analysis of the film as well as illuminating its relationship to the Lampedusa novel from which it was adapted Weir suggests that Visconti's film goes beyond mere adaptation using the form of the novel for cinematic purposes and making The Leopard a cinematic novel in its own right He goes on to situate the film within Visconti's career questioning whether the uneven reception of the film reflects the paradox of Visconti's social status as a Marxist aristocrat and his position as an auteur director whose films borrowed heavily from the decadent tradition while at the same time professing allegiance to the Italian Communist Party
