Straub, 2018-04-17 American Baptists emerged from the Civil War as a divided group Slavery landmarkism and other issues sundered Baptists into regional clusters who held more or less to the same larger doctrinal sentiments As the century progressed influences from Europe further altered the landscape A new way to view the Bible more human less divine began to shape Baptist thought Moreover Darwinian evolutionism altered the way religion was studied Religion like humanity itself was progressing Conservative Baptists proto fundamentalists objected to these alterations Baptist bodies had a new enemy theological liberalism The schools were at the center of the story in the earliest days as professors many of whom studied abroad returned to the United States with progressive ideas that were passed on to their students Soon these ideas were being presented at denominational gatherings or published in denomination papers and books Baptists agitated over the new views with some professors losing their jobs when they strayed too far from historic Baptists commitments By 1920 the Northern Baptists in particular broke out into an all out war over theology that came to be called The Fundamentalist Modernist controversy This is the fifty year history behind that controversy Multiple Criteria Decision Making Kyoto 1975 M. Zeleny, 2012-12-06 This collection of articles aspires to be a permanent record of ideas which are likely to become important determinants in the future of management sciences These papers were initially presented at the first session on Multiple Criteria Decision Making QMCDM organized under the auspices of The Institute of Management Sciences TIMS All works were prepared by leading spokesmen for three generations of OR MS change agents Special mention must be made of the dynamic role which Professor Martin K Starr played in organizing the program of the TIMS XXII International Meeting In May 1973 Professor Starr who was President of TIMS and Program Chairman of the Kyoto conference requested me to chair the MCDM session Throughout the long period of formative inter change Dr Starr demonstrated his full and continuing support of both the event and the MCDM field On July 25 1975 surrounded by the rocky gardens of the Kyoto International Conference Hall KICH located on the shore of Takaraga Ike we engaged in a day long discussion of MCDM Our talk together in Kyoto was a professional experience of the highest intensity for participants speakers and audience alike Historical Outlook ,1926

The Neurocognition of Language Production Albert Costa,Kristof Strijkers,2012-06-01 Over the last decades neuroscience has passed beyond mere phrenology and erpology and has become an important tool for investigating the spatial temporal and functional brain dynamics underlying human behavior In this Special Issue we would like to give a broad overview of recent significant contributions that neuroscientific research has provided to one of the most practiced psychomotor skills unique to humans namely language production Physiological studies in language production have not been as extensive compared to many other areas of human cognition and have just currently begun to generate important evidence for uncovering the cognitive mechanisms behind our ability to produce fast and efficient speech Nonetheless these findings have already demonstrated their scientific value and interest in neuroscientific approaches for studying language production is increasing exponentially Therefore we believe that a topic specially dedicated to neurocognitive advances in language production is not just in its place but even necessary Rather than focusing on a specific topic the idea is to cover many of the important aspects involved in producing speech semantics word retrieval syntax phonology motor preparation and control gathered from various paradigms e g object naming word naming etc and various populations monolinguals bilinguals patients The goal is to provide readers with a comprehensive overview of the general questions being addressed in neuroscientific studies on language production where the research stands how these findings are of importance for understanding and constraining cognitive models and which future directions have to be taken To this end we will invite experts in the field who have made significant contributions in the last several years to confer an important topic of language production critically discuss neuroscientific findings on this topic relate it to the actual behavior and cognitive models and importantly though novel questions which can be derived from their results and facilitate future research in the field Hereby we hope this Research Topic will be a source of reference both for experts as novices who wish to explore the various mental operations involved in language production from a neurocognitive point of view Nuclear Science Abstracts ,1961
