contaminants that can have many sources. Such is often the case for mining sites that involve metal contamination. Metals occur naturally in the environment; they can be contaminants in the wastes generated at or released from the sites, and they can be used in consumer products which can degrade and release the metals back to the environment. This report examines the extent to which various sources contribute to environmental lead contamination at Superfund sites that are near lead mining areas and focuses on sources that contribute to lead contamination at sites near the Southeast Missouri Lead Mining District. It recommends potential improvements in approaches used for assessing sources of lead contamination at or near Superfund sites.
