Untold Stories David Divita, 2024-01-31 Forgetting about Spain's civil war 1936-9 and subsequent dictatorship was long seen as a necessary safeguard for the democracy that emerged after General Francisco Franco's death in 1975 Since the early 2000s however public discussion of historical memory has awakened efforts to remember this past through the personal testimonies of Spaniards who experienced it firsthand Untold Stories expands accounts of twentieth century Spain by presenting an ethnography of an ignored population the impoverished men and women who fled Franco's dictatorship in the 1960s participating in a wave of labour migration to northern Europe Now in their eighties they were born around the time of the civil war and came of age during its repressive aftermath before leaving Spain as young adults The book features a community of such Spaniards who gather regularly at a senior centre on the outskirts of Paris Drawing on concepts from linguistic anthropology David Divita analyses conversational encounters recorded among the seniors to demonstrate how a turbulent past shapes mundane moments of social interaction in the present Documenting what is said as well as what is not Divita reveals through detailed textual analysis how silence can pervade the creation of social meanings such as belonging authority and legitimacy Untold Stories illuminates the impact of a harrowing historical period on some of Spain's most marginal citizens in the early years of the dictatorship Shadow

Lullaby Shannon M. Ward,2024-10-01 In Amdo a region of eastern Tibet incorporated into mainland China young children are being raised in a time of social change In the first decades of the twenty first century Chinese state development policies are catalysing rural to urban migration consolidating schooling in urban centres and leading Tibetan farmers and nomads to give up their traditional livelihoods As a result children face increasing pressure to adopt the state's official language of Mandarin Amdo Lullaby charts the contrasting language socialization trajectories of rural and urban children from one extended family who are native speakers of a Tibetan language known locally as Farmer Talk By integrating a fine grained analysis of everyday conversations and oral history interviews linguistic anthropologist Shannon M Ward examines the forms of migration and resulting language contact that contribute to Farmer Talk's unique grammatical structures and that shape Amdo Tibetan children's language choices This analysis reveals that young children are not passively abandoning their mother tongue for standard Mandarin but instead are reformatting traditional Amdo Tibetan cultural associations among language place and kinship as they build their peer relationships in everyday play Suspect Others

Stuart Earle Strange,2021-07-30 Suspect Others explores how ideas of self knowledge and identity arise from a unique set of rituals in Suriname a postcolonial Caribbean nation rife with racial and religious suspicion Amid competition for belonging political power and control over natural resources Surinamese Ndyuka Maroons and Hindus look to spirit mediums to understand the causes of their successes and sufferings and to know the hidden minds of relatives and rivals alike But although mediumship promises knowledge of others interactions between mediums and their devotees also fundamentally challenge what devotees know about themselves thereby turning interpersonal suspicion into doubts about the self Through a rich ethnographic comparison of the different ways in which Ndyuka and Hindu spirit mediums and their devotees navigate suspicion Suspect Others shows how present day Caribbean peoples come to experience selves that defy concepts of personhood inflicted by the colonial past Stuart Earle Strange investigates key questions about the nature of self knowledge religious revelation and racial discourse in a hyper diverse society At a moment when exclusionary suspicions dominate global politics Suspect Others elucidates self identity as a social process that emerges from the paradoxical ways in which people must look to others to know themselves
